FOREWORD

We offer the year book of the class of 1922 to all Westerners—to those connected with or interested in Western—with the idea of presenting a permanent record of the school's accomplishments in its many branches of learning and activity.

The members of the graduating class have witnessed the growth of Western since they entered the school as Freshmen four years ago, have seen its development from a small school into a great institution, have watched it pass through an unusual transitional stage, surmounting all obstacles in the path of advancement, until it has, at length, become our present great Western, a word which has come to mean success in scholastic attainments, athletics, student activities, and military drill.

It is the work of the undergraduate to uphold our present high standard of excellence and carry it forward to greater achievement.

1891-1922

Western---Then and Now

I want to quote from the YEAR BOOK of the "Washington High School," published in '91, to give you an idea of Western as it was when it began—"as this was the initiating year of the branch high school (Western was not named at the time of writing), it took us some little time to get in running order. We enrolled fifty-four names on the first day of school, and at first we had a corps of three teachers, besides the special ones.

"In October the membership ran up from fifty-four to sixty-three, and in the next two months dropped to fifty-eight, which number it still holds.

"Miss Robinson was consigned to German, Science and History, while Miss Wescott took charge of Mathematics, Latin and English; Miss Chester shares with us and Capitol Hill School (Eastern) her instructions in drawing, and while Mrs. Pollock imparts to our girls the culinary arts, the boys are instructed in manual training by Mr. Fuller.

"Situated on the upper floor of a large building, we are completely cut off from the school below us. One large assembly hall, two recitation rooms and one vacant room constitute our pleasant quarters.

"The studies in which we took the greatest interest were German and Latin. There is something delightfully exhilarating, as well as broadening to the mind, in this class study of language; consequently the interest in these subjects has been unflagging, until we reached declensions. That was and has been the greatest difficulty we have had to surmount in German. Yet, after memorizing the rules for declension, our sinking spirits rose, and our lessons proved as delightful as of old. The class will always fondly recall the recitations in chorus of the many beautiful poems, among which stand with many clustering associations 'Die Lorelei' and 'Der Erlkonig.'

"In Latin, we had a most enjoyable time; so far as possible, we have followed the inductive method, but have been able to do very little in the way of conversation. However, we have had considerable practice in reading at sight, and as for parsing, constructing and otherwise tearing to pieces and rebuilding, we are most adept.

"To many of us, English has proven the most enjoyable. We are all well aware of our inability to even passably describe a pretty, picturesque engraving, but feel that we are mentally stronger for having attempted so difficult an art as pen painting. As a sample of our ability in lucid descriptions: 'In the center of the room was an old chair, with carved legs thrown across the back of a fur rug taken from a bear by Lord Bradley with the aid of a Taussig after a hard struggle.'

THE WESTERN HIGH SCHOOL

1891-1922

"We excel in narration. Behold a triumph in its way! 'After a long walk, I arrived at the house, which was very large and old-fashioned looking, rink the bell, I was showed into the Gentleman's liberry, he opened the note and read it rapidly, leaving the room, on entering the room my curiosity was rewarded and having an opportunity to look around I did so.'

"During the first few months of school, not having a piano or the wherewithal to get one, it necessitated the renting of one, which was done until December, when from an entertainment given by us, "A Dickens' Carnival," we were able to realize one hundred dollars. This went toward the excellent instrument which we then and there purchased. Since then we have been enabled to add seven dollars to the original sum, and now we have left to pay one hundred and ninety-three dollars, which we trust soon to discharge.

"Now that the time for closing school is so near at hand, we all feel a regret that our pleasant school year is nearing its end. However, we are feeling much better than we did before it was announced that we were to have a second year in Georgetown. Last year most of us felt that we were imposed upon in being sent here; but since we have had such a jolly time, we all disliked the idea of being separated next year at the main building. That is the greatest advantage of being in a small school. Every one knows every other one, and we seem to come more together and take more of an interest in each other."

The quotation that I have just rendered, gentle reader, I hope has given you some idea of Western in 1891—now we will turn the pages of time to 1922 and see what the Class of '22 has done and what Western is like after thirty-one long years of striving to become the Best School in the city. A few things of note that will be mentioned elsewhere in this book, I will jot down here. We have grown from fifty-eight to nine hundred and thirty-eight pupils, from a three-room school to a twenty-five-room school with classes in the afternoon as well as in the morning, from three teachers to thirty-seven teachers. We have excellent baseball, basket ball, football and track teams—while in '91 they did not have sufficient funds or boys to have any athletics.

This short history of Western has been written so as to show how great things can grow from such small beginnings. To show how the Western spirit originated—has grown—expanded and become one of the great forces in the lives of so many Westerners. Let's give an "English-Latin" to the class that came to Western in '91 and gave it such a grand start in life.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

1918-1919

Many years ago in 1918, two hundred and forty-two timid youngsters announced to the world, their intention of seeking four years of knowledge in the halls of Western.

The other classes little dreamed how great we would be, until they were overwhelmed by our distinct originality in being the first to organize the Freshman Class. We chose Robert Denton for our president, Virginia Bird for vice-president, David Lobdell for treasurer and Margaret Bain for our secretary. But this was not all. Both boys' and girls' teams walked away with the basket ball championships. The conquering heroes were "Bob" Denton, Carl Smith, "Toy" Welliver, "Suite" Jeffress and Paul Frisby; the heroines "Miss" Harrison, Elizabeth Brounstein, "Bill" Doyle, Helen Newman, Mildred Omwake, Margaret Bain, and Ruth Mink. The upper classmen kindly allowed us to serve refreshments at the "Masquerade" and in this successful achievement, the class of '22 covered themselves with glory and ice cream.

1919-1920

In the fall of 1919, we returned with the self-same spirit and organized our class, electing Henry Wright, president; Margaret Reese, vice-president; Edward Colladay, treasurer, and Jessie Adkins secretary. The event of the year was the Sophomore dance, at which the members of our class were conspicuous by their absence. It was in this year also that the boys, headed by "Bob" Armstrong started the famous over-all movement.

Reece Hair won fame on the championship baseball team.

Examinations wound up the program for the year and with few casualties, we became Juniors.

1920-1921

September came and so did the faithful. In football "Pops" Turner and "Bo" Lamar received "W's."

Much dramatic ability was displayed by the Junior Class in the spring play, "Twelfth Night." The incomparable trio Sir Toby Belch (Robert Lamb), Maria (Margaret Bain), and Sir Anthony Aguecheek (Robert Armstrong) furnished much amusement. "Hots" Woerner especially distinguished himself in numerous plays of the year, given by the Dramatic Association.

Lieut. Shea, Sergt. Lamb and Corpls. Moseley, Randolph and Reeve were members of the championship war game team of Company L.

The Junior girls won their laurels in both hockey, basket ball and baseball. Those prominent in athletics were Frances Bethel, captain of hockey and baseball; Helen Newman, captain of basket ball; Laura Switzer, manager of Rifle Team; "Bill" Doyle, Virginia Fuller, Elizabeth Dorsey, Ellen Stuart, Anne Gleason, Mildred Omwake, Louise Barnes, Gertrude Bliss, Edythe Buckler, Ivy Bruce, Elizabeth Bethel, Helen Rohrer, Frances Pace, Grace Sherman, Evelyn Kidwell, Grace Wilson, Nancy Wesson, Virginia Mason, Virginia McIlwee, Ruth Stafford and Dorothy Arnold. And so with the bright prospect of becoming seniors before us, we went on our vacation.

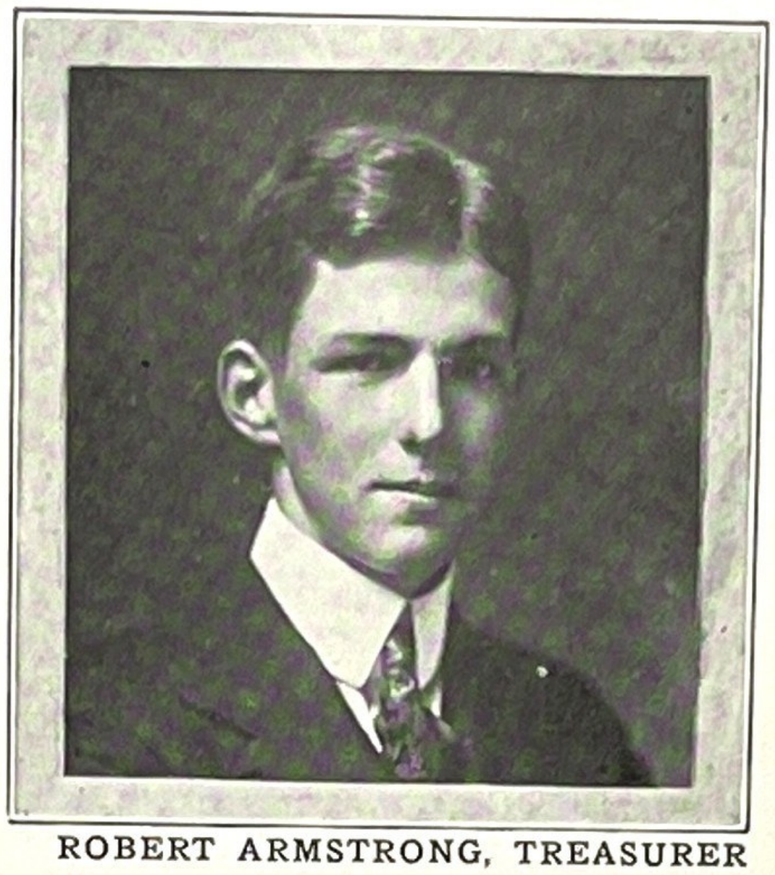

1921-1922

A few flying months and we returned, Seniors! Several weeks later we were quite proud of the fact that we elected Otis Turner president, Helen Newman vice-president, Robert Armstrong treasurer and Margaret Reese secretary.

The football team, with "Bo" Lamar as captain, although composed almost entirely of "green" men, had a very successful season. "How 'Bo' booted the ball" in the Eastern game and the repetition of holding Central to a scoreless tie were the features of the series. The basket ball men also had a very profitable season.

MARGARET REESE, SECRETARY

ROBERT ARMSTRONG, TREASURER

1918—1922

The track team under Capt. Lyle Fountain, did well in the meets it entered. The baseball nine has already brought honor to Western and "as we go to press" victory looms large for the "boys across the creek."

The Senior girls again walked away with first honors in both hockey and basket ball. Eleanora Barroll, on the field, starred through the series, supported by Margaret Reese, captain, Louise Barnes, Frances Bethel, Ivy Bruce, Edythe Buckler, Virginia Fuller, Frances Pace, Helen Rohrer, Grace Sherman and Nancy Wesson. Frances Bethel and "Bill" Doyle, forwards, in cooperation with Helen Newman, captain, center, Edyth Buckler, Gertrude Bliss, Eleanora Barroll, Virginia Fuller and Margaret Reese, exhibited remarkable team work, as usual, in the gym.

In December the curtain was rung up on "Hop Along," the first vaudeville show of Western. This was a tremendous success. When John Paul Milton Anthony Jones, Jr., sang "'Nita Jua-a-a-anita," the coldest heart was touched. "The Pot Boiler" was voted one of the best features of the program. Helen Newman, as the "vamp," and Carl Woerner as the "hot-headed" playwright, will never be forgotten. The boys' and girls' glee clubs also added much enjoyment to the performance.

Perhaps the brightest page in the history of our class was the Senior dance, given for the February graduating class. Numerous other dances of the year, sponsored by the Home and School Association were enjoyed by all.

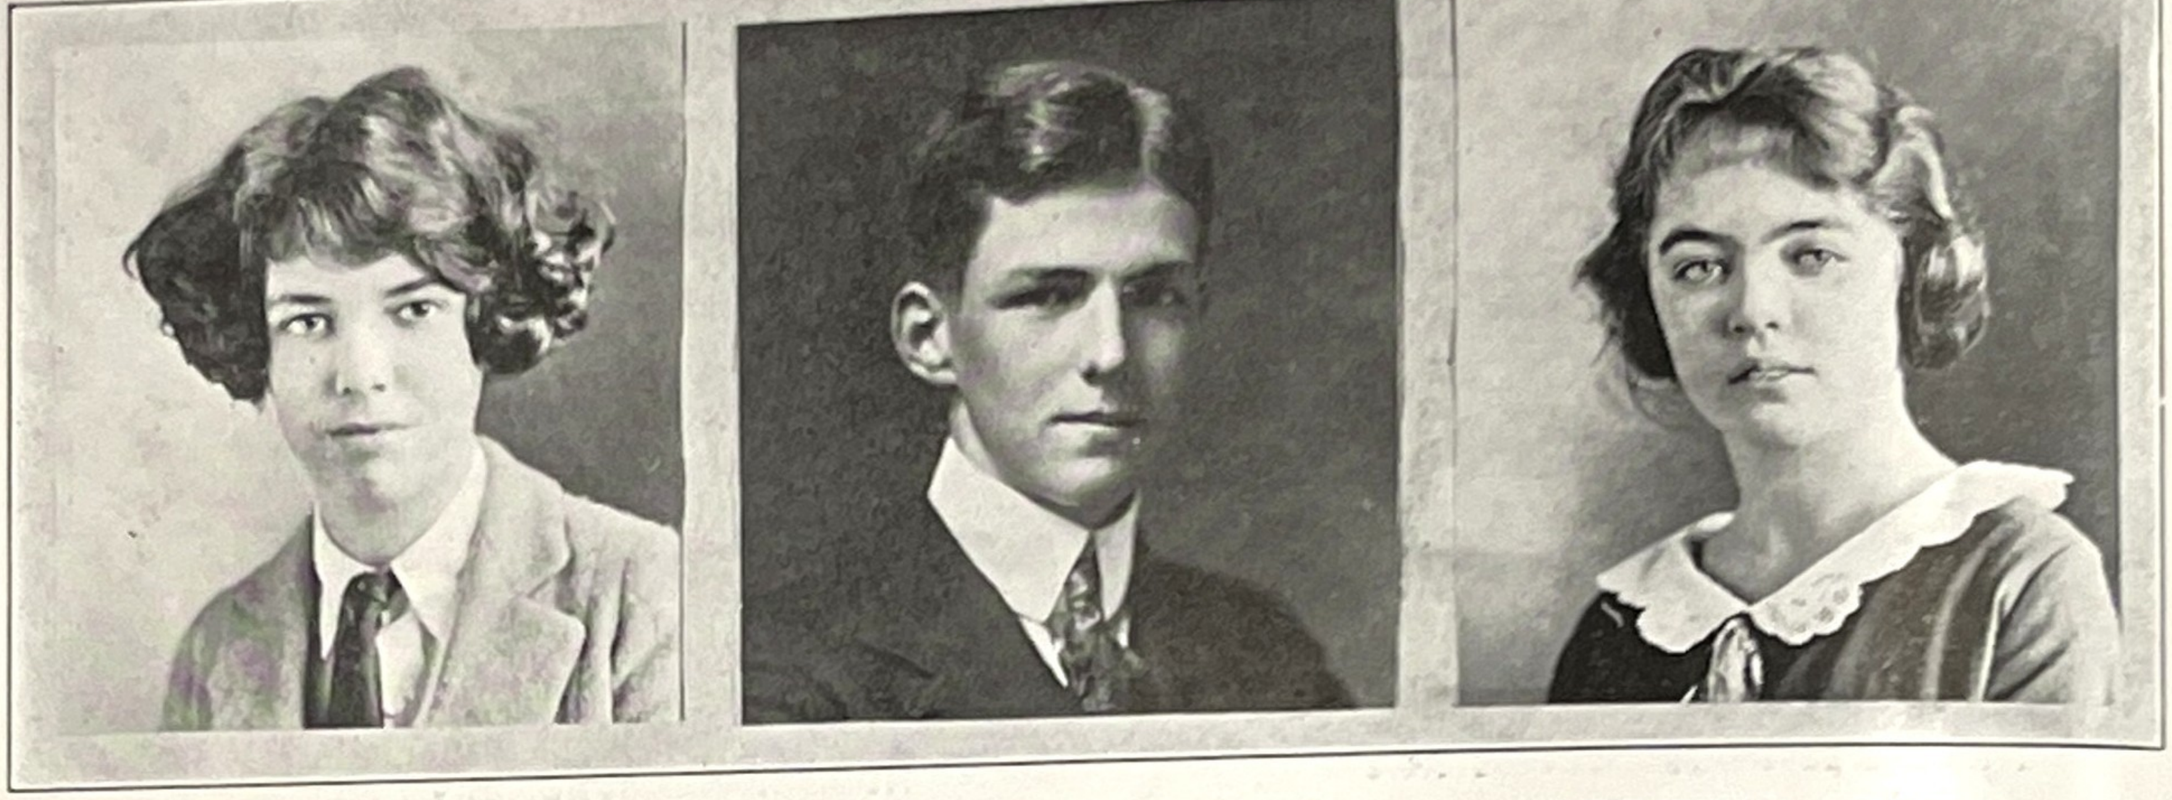

Mid-year exams, Easter holidays and spring fever came and went. On May 5, laying aside the dignity of seniority, pigtails, long curls, and short trousers became the order of the day. The Barnes twins with their pink and blue bows and their big white teddy bears, our haughty vice-president, with her long golden curls, "Poggy" Reese, with her fierce fighter Agamemnon, and "Bob Armstrong's Buster Brown tie, will forever remain in the memory of the class of '22.

The cadets have had a most successful year. In the fall with one hundred and seventy-one men enlisted, Western had the honor for the first time of having a full-fledged battalion. The officers, Capt. Lamb and Lieuts. Meckling and Moseley, of Co. H; Capt. Hazel and Lieuts. Simpson and Pizer, of Co. K, and Capt. Shea and Lieuts. Armstrong and Hall, of Co. L, have been drilling their men hard all during the year. For the first time an exhibition drill was staged before the school and judging from the merit of these men as representatives of Cos. H, K and L, we feel sure that, as Maj. Hoffman says: "All three companies will tie for first place in the competitive drill."

Margaret Bain, Mary Griffith and Otis Turner were prominent in the spring play, "The Rivals." With "Hots" Woerner and "Billy" Brown, as editors of The Breeze and The Westerner, respectively, all can readily understand why these two illustrious literary productions have been so successful. The Class of '22 wishes to express its appreciation of Miss Houghton's unfailing interest in and help to The Breeze and YEAR BOOK staffs.

Now, our thoughts turn to Class Night and diplomas and we prepare to leave the halls where we have spent four happy years. Commencement comes only too soon when we have to part company with those teachers whom we have learned to love and comrades whom we will never forget. We have tried to live up to the traditions of Western, to bring to her added honor in school spirit, scholarships and athletics, in short, to do all that would make us worthy of being called true Westerners.

A Psalm of School

(Always Apologizing to Longfellow)

I

Tell us not, misleading poet,
School is but an idle dream;
For the student works, who passes;
Lessons are not what they seem.

II

School is real, school is earnest,
And today we but begin;
"Weak thou art—to school returnest,"
Oft is spoken ere we win.

III

Class seemed long, yet lunch-time fleeting,
And we've all seemed brave and gay,
Though our hearts like drum were beating
On examination day.

IV

Not beginning and not ending,
Is our school of life today;
But to pause, our memories blending
With our hopes along the way.

V

Lives of graduates remind us
We can win a sheep-skin, too;
And departing, leave behind us
Proof that we can all pull through.

W. Cyril Flannery,
Class Poet.

A Sophomore at Western

HISTORY OF THE SOPHOMORE CLASS

SORRY though we were to leave our care-free vacation, we were really glad to get back to school because we had a new experience ahead of us. You see, last year our class proved itself so unusual that Dr. Newton let us have the building all to ourselves every afternoon. This was very lovely, but we really grew quite lonely, so he promised that in our Sophomore year we could go in the morning and we were very excited at the prospect.

OUCH! How it did hurt to study? We really seemed to be doing all the work in Western. Of course, we realized that being a very "unusual" class, more was to be expected of us, but even considering that—enough is enough! Also, we were not in the habit of rising before dawn and trudging off to school too sleepy to know our own car stop. And it took many tardy slips to discover just how late one could be with safety.

PROUD? Sure, we're proud of our boys. To come out second in the track meet is a big honor. Not only by the star running of Donald Smith and the remarkable jumping of Roland Dulin was second place obtained, but by the steady work of other boys who gave their very best for the Class of '24. If they do all this for their class, what will they do for Western!

HOCKEY was the first chance for us girls to show our skill and such a crowd of us came out for it that Captain Ruth Cox had a hard job. Having had no athletics last year, even we were startled when we held the Seniors to a tie in a championship game. Of course, we remembered then that we were a very "unusual" class. When the Seniors became champions we interested ourselves in the fact that Karla Heurich, Edna Kelley, Dorothy Smith, Lee Hamilton and Ruth Cox were given "W's" and formally taken into the Girls' "W" Club.

OUR boys in the meantime were not idle. Constantine Eisinger, Edward Hannegan and Richard Hume were able to make the football team and win their "W's." Many rallied to the standards of the cadets and we truthfully say that they have added much luster to the already famous cadets of Western.

MANY of the girls came out for Basket ball. Capt. Henrietta Owens picked a fast team, which, though it did not win the championship, shows promise for next year. Those winning "W's" were Henrietta Owens, Rae Willson, Kathleen Berry, Edna Kelly and Karla Heurich.

OUR class was heard from in the orchestra through the skill of Dorothy Greasley and Betty Lane, violins; Alfred May, saxophone, and Oswald Waldo, drum.

RIFLE practice also attracted the attention of the Sophomores, Karla Heurich and Rachel Clark, who won for themselves the positions of captains.

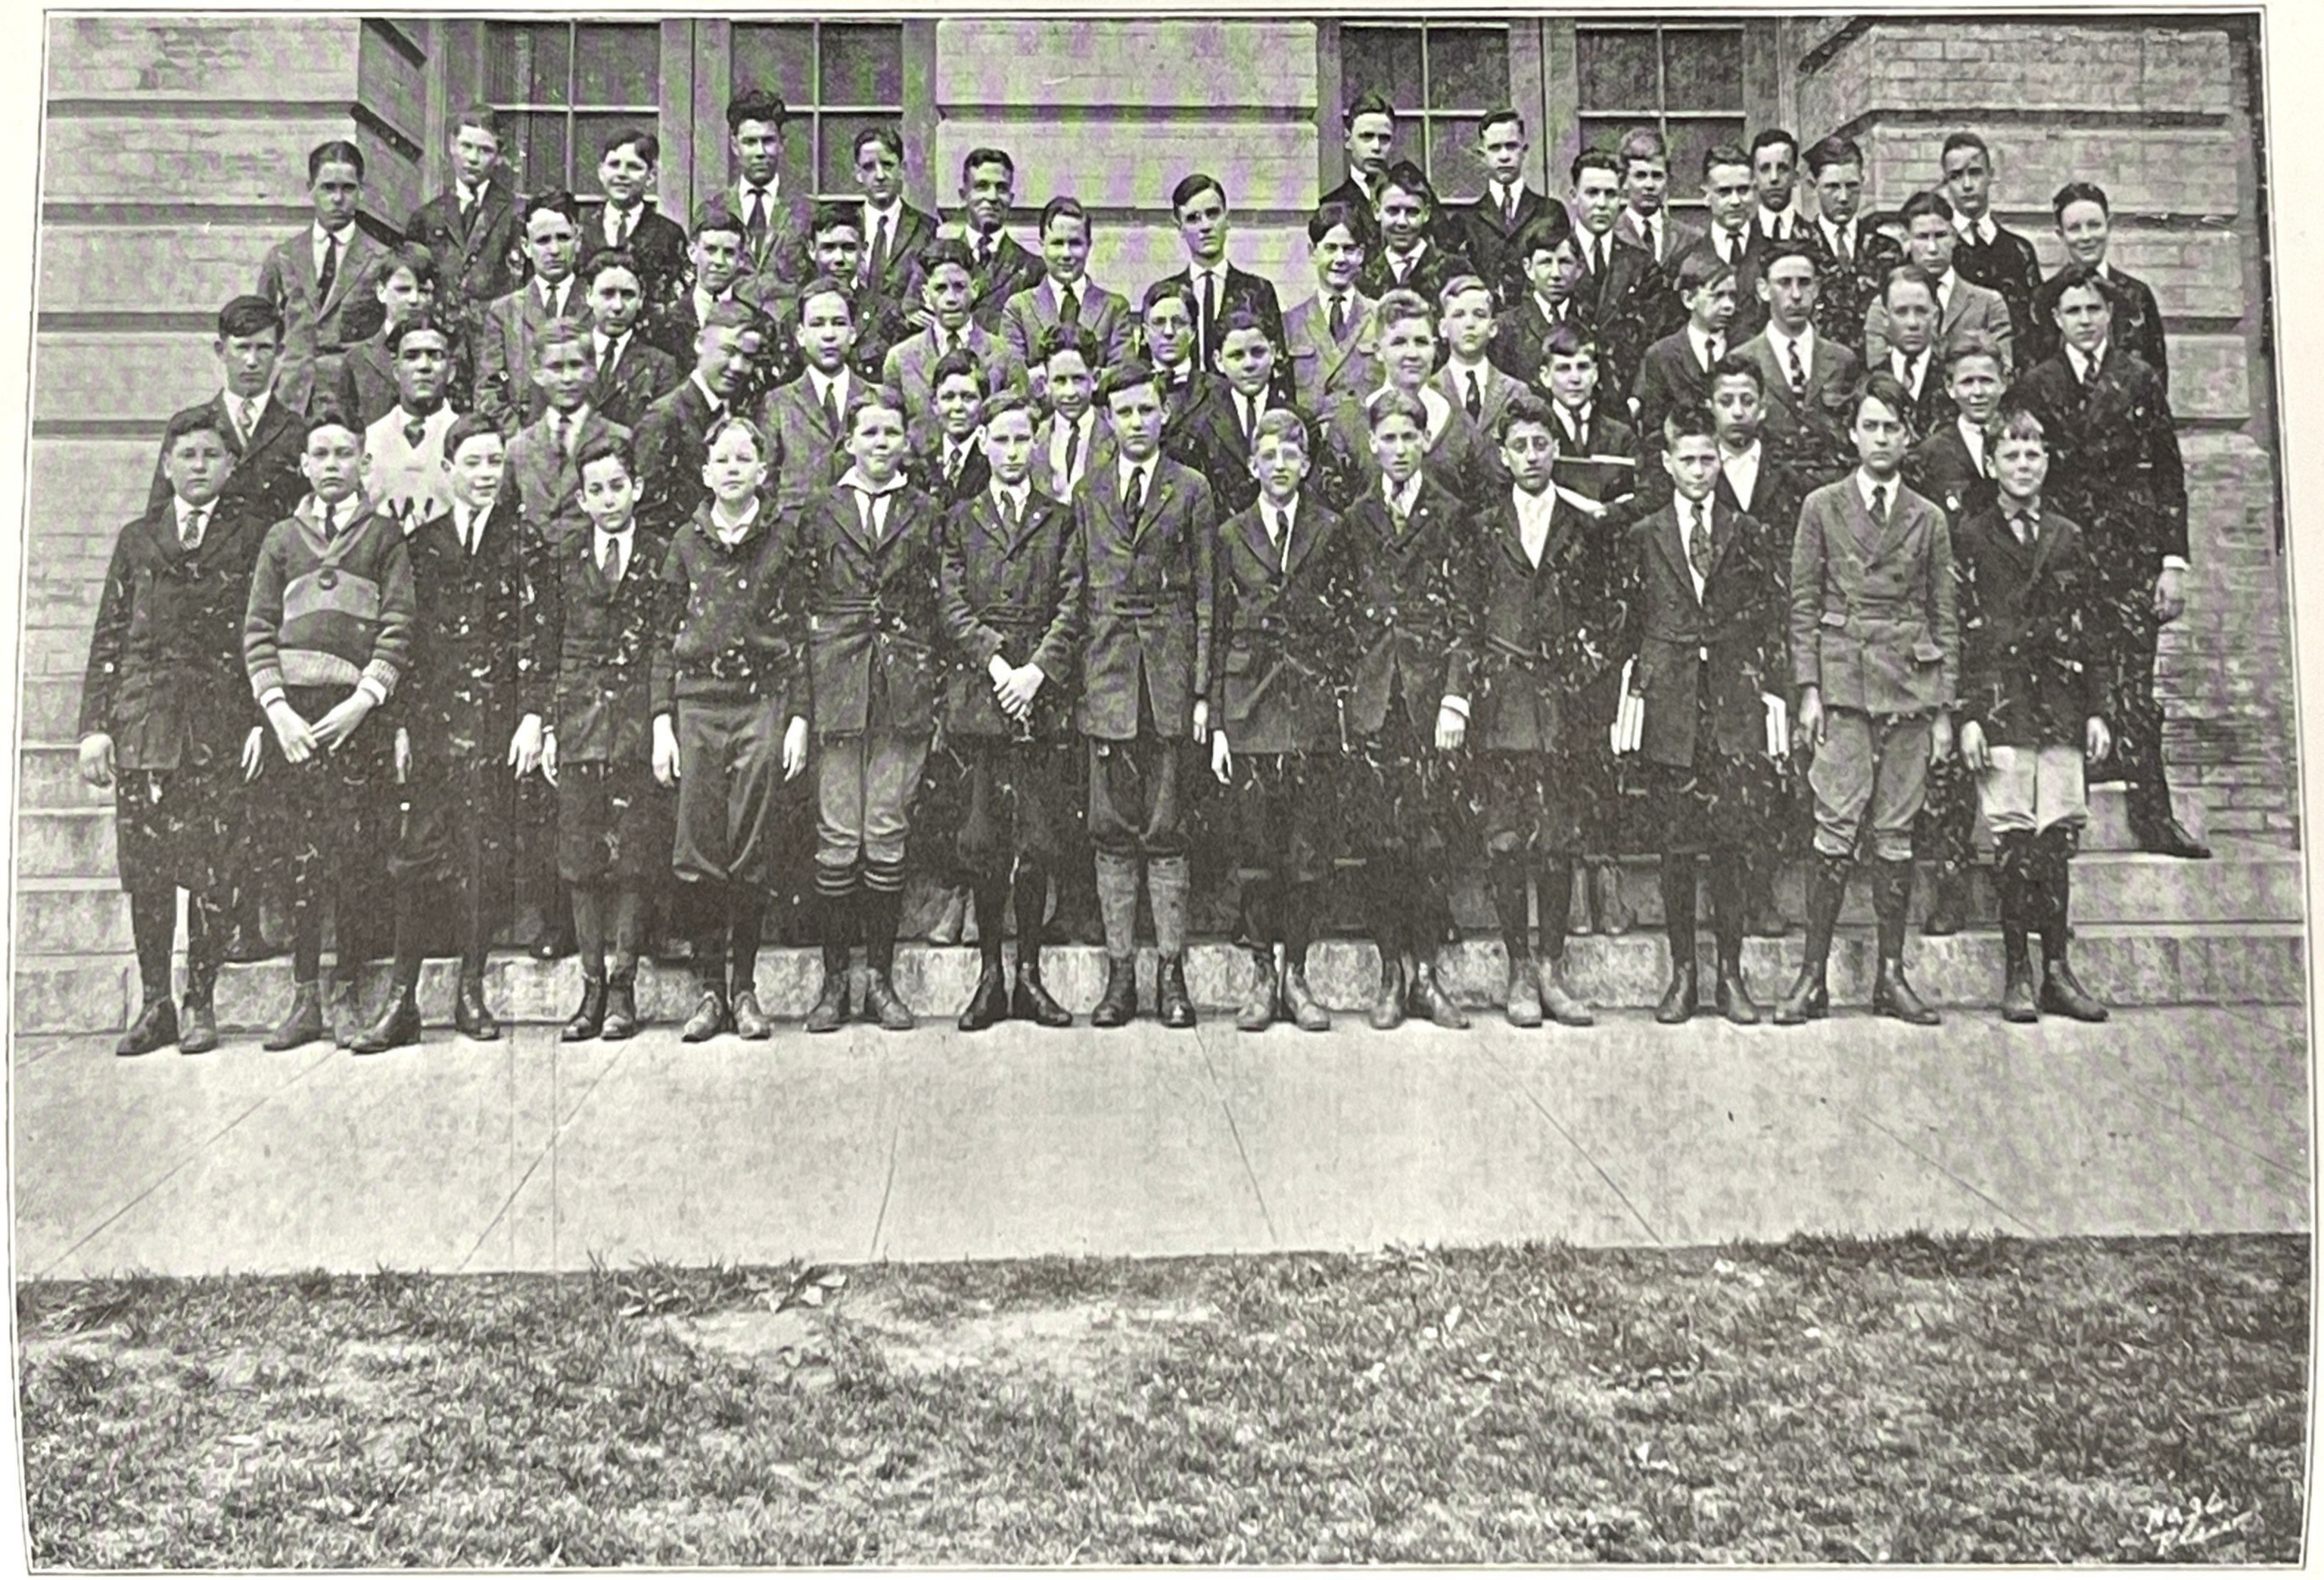

ENDING. But you will hear from us again soon, as '24 is just starting on its career. We really love Western and though we realize that we are just beginning to feel the "Western Spirit," we are giving our best and soon the most dignified of Seniors will have to admit that '24 is a very unusual class.

DOROTHY SMITH.

"ROOKIE"

(With Apologies to Kipling)

I went into the library to get a certain book,
A Senior looked at little me, and froze me with a look.
A "Jolly Junior" turned around and giggled fit to die.
I outs into the hall again, and to myself sez I:

Oh, it's "Rookie" this, and "Rookie" that, and "Rookie" go away,
But it's "Please to come and cheer us when our teams begin to play."
Our teams begin to play, my child, our teams begin to play,
Oh, it's please to come and cheer us when our teams begin to play.

I went into the 'sembly hall as quiet as could be,
They have a noisy soph'more room, but they hadn't none for me.
They send me to the back seats or even to the wall,
And when it's something popular I don't get in at all.

For it's "Rookie here," and "Rookie there," and "Beat it—P. D. Q."
And we get rather tired of it, for we are human, too.
Oh, we are human, too, my friends, yes, we are human, too;
And we get rather tired of it, for we are human, too.

We ain't no little babies, nor we ain't no children, too;
But we are just high school pupils, most remarkable like you.
And sometimes if we do not seem to know as much as you,
Why, please remember, people, you once were "Rookies," too.

For it's "Rookie this," and "Rookie that," and "Rookie, watch your step."
"You've got to keep the standards that the other classes kept."
But we can grin and bear it, for it won't be thus alway,
And we know that in the future we'll be doing it some day.

SUE BIRNIE.

History of the Freshman Class

Each one of us so-called "Freshies" welcomed the prospect of school this fall with especial eagerness, because we all realized we were going to meet friends, both great and small, in the wonderful metropolis, called "Western."

Though we seem to have failed to convince the upper classmen of the vast extent of our prowess and ability, we have undoubtedly an astounding amount of knowledge concerning things in general. For instance, take our studies. The following list of Freshmen who were on the Honor Roll will show how many of our number, though having violent cases of brain fever at the unexpected appearance of exams, were able to reach that goal.

316—Frank Weitzel, 4-E
212—Virginia Latterner, 4-E
217—Sue Birnie, 4-E
217—Celia Boley, 4-E
214—Cornelia Busick, 4-E
214—Frances Symonds, 4-E
214—Avril Stewart, 2-E, 3-G
214—Katharine Reese, 5-G
217—James Bradley, 4-E
313—Louise Du Bose, 4-E
313—Ray Lewis, 4-E
313—Barbara Miller, 4-E
305—Sylvia Meyer 4-E
305—Herman Vollerman, 5-G

As well as being brilliant in our studies we have some budding geniuses in our midst who will no doubt burst into full bloom in the course of their various careers at Western. Among the foremost are Sue Birnie, our ready writer, and Anne Gleaves and Earl Moser, our illustrious artists. Many others will, of course, come into view at the horizon line and gradually work their way to the foreground.

Athletics? Oh, Yes! The girls had a flourishing basket ball squad, which, although it missed the championship by a remarkably wide margin, helped to boost the Western spirit in the Freshman Class. The girls in the squad were as follows: Mary Bradley (captain), Betty McMorris, Sue Burnie, Catherine Carmichael, Helen Faulkner, Fern Grindell and Ruth Miller. The substitutes were Elizabeth Gorman, Kitty Reese and Mary Hoge.

The athletic year for the boys of the class did not start off as auspiciously as it might have, and though the football team, captained by that doughty warrior, David Taylor, devoted itself to training, it was turned back in three grueling contests and retired from the scene wringing its hands.

After the football season was over the athletes of the class turned (more or less) to their studies and succeeded in working off or rather warding off enemy flunks looming on the horizon.

Our eyes now turned from the devastation caused by old Jupiter Pluvius and his able assistant, Jack Frost, to indoor sports. The basket ball team, under the guidance of Carlton Collins, achieved notable success, downing eleven opponents and bowing its head in defeat only three times.

When the balmy southern zephyr, with its gentle breeze, began to sooth the scars of the winter ridden earth, the Freshmen turned their attention to baseball and track. Captained by the sylph-like Earle Moser, our nimble backstop, and Tom David, of football fame, and with Bastable Duryea, serving 'em up, the baseball team has so far turned in a good record and we hope it will live up to its present reputation when later some of its members represent Western in the inter-scholastic baseball championship series.

The track team has not yet really been organized but we hope for the best.

Altogether we feel that in both scholastic and athletic events we have had a remarkable year, and hope that the Western spirit which we have imbibed this term will develop with us in later years and that the class may survive to uphold the integrity and honor of Western High School.

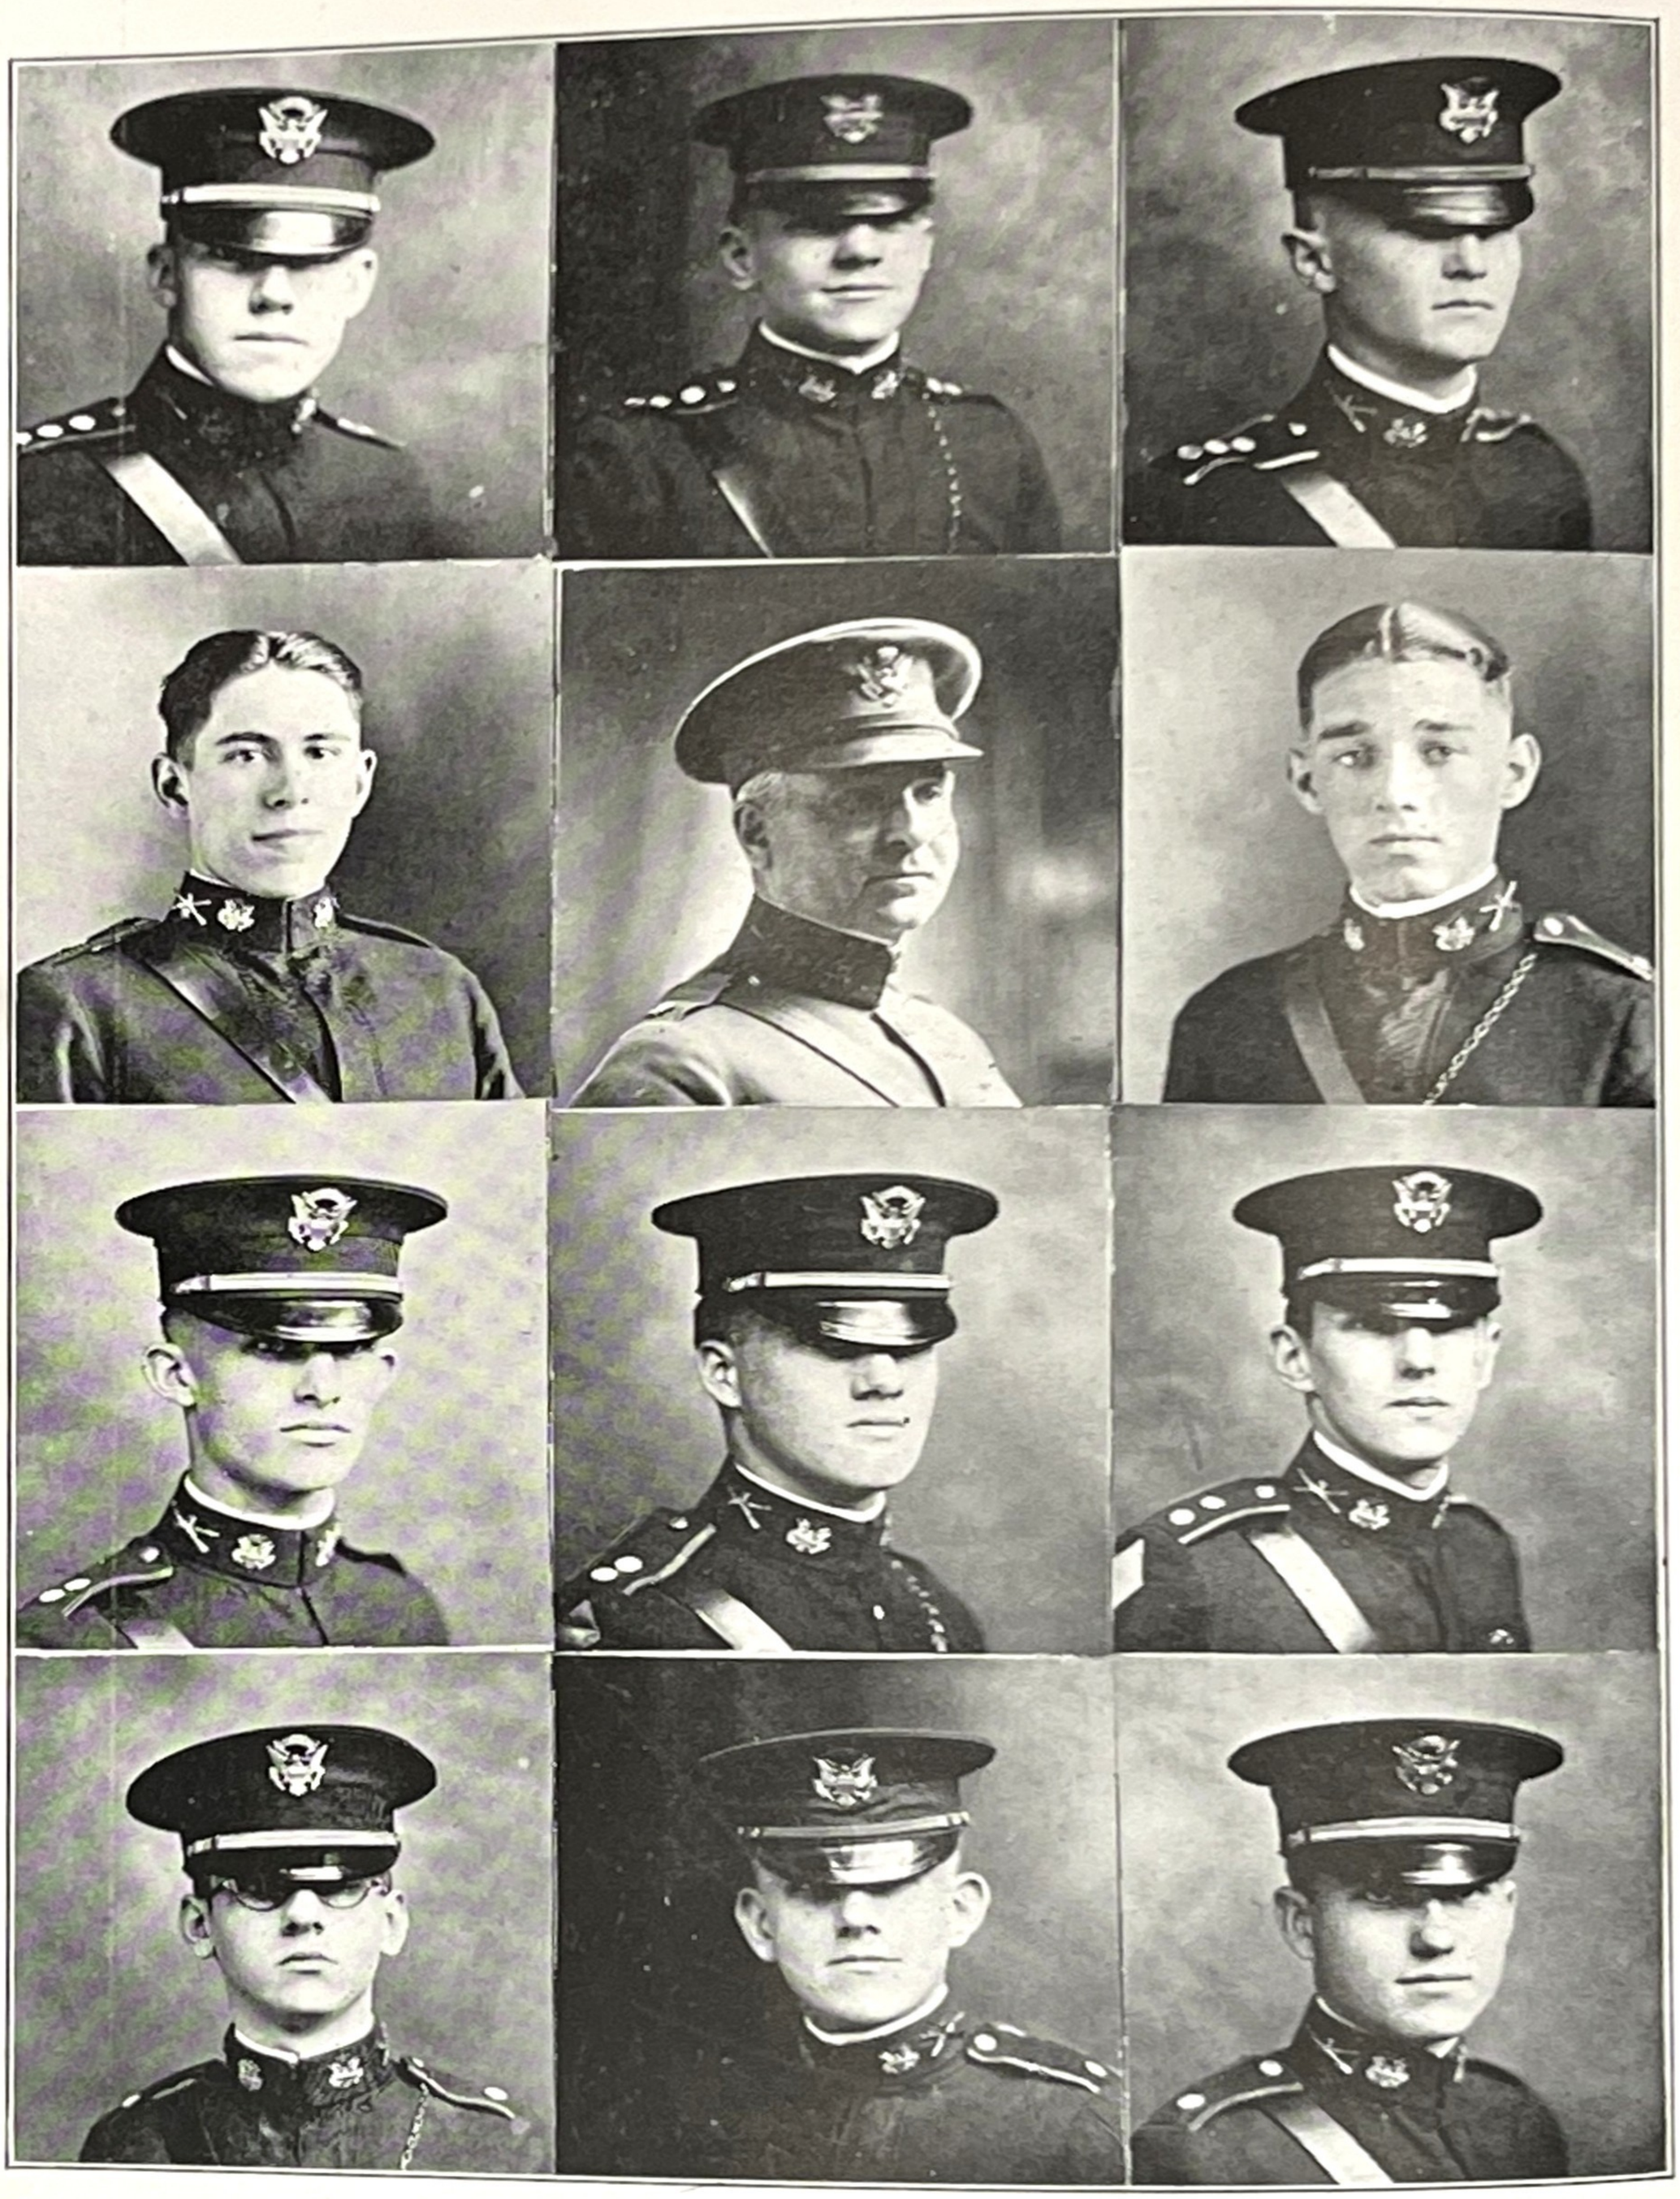

KITTY REESE,
JIMMIE BRADLEY.

THE OFFICERS' CLUB

Though no official motto for the Cadet Officers' Club of Western High School has been adopted, "Cooperate and Go-Get-It," express perfectly the aims of that organization. It is due to these methods of attack that the excellent record of the club has been brought to such a successful termination.

At the beginning of the cadet year the officers met and made their plans to put the companies "over the top." Realizing clearly that there was only one way to do that—by organization—they elected a temporary chairman at their first meeting. A Constitution Committee was promptly chosen, and within the ensuing week the Club became a recognized association.

Capt. Wolcott Shea was elected president for the first advisory, and by unanimous re-election has that office throughout the year. Maj. Hoffman, Capt. Lamb and Lieut. Armstrong have held the post of secretary-treasurer successively, while Capt. Hazel, Lieuts. Moseley and Meckling have filled the position of sergeant-at-arms. The roll call of the club is as follows: Maj. Hoffman, Capts. Lamb, Shea and Hazel, First Lieuts. Meckling, Simpson, Stevenson and Armstrong, and Second Lieuts. Moseley, Hall and Piser.

Early in the year the time was completely taken up with company matters, such as the adoption of the Lentz system of cadence drill throughout the battalion. Later on, the club's activities became more varied and numerous, ranging from planning and carrying out the various cadet hops to modifying Army tactics for use in our cadet companies.

When the Student Committee was organized the Officers' Club was efficiently represented by Maj. Hoffman and Capt. Lamb, Shea and Hazel.

The club has been commended by Dr. Newton for the aid given to the school at large, and for its accomplishment in cadet work. The value to the school and corps of a club having such spirit and interest cannot be over-estimated, and, therefore, it is felt that there is sufficient reason to justify the existence of the organization, without mentioning the ever-present factor of the strong and lasting friendships which have sprung up among the members.

With the excellent standard which the organization has set in its first year, the members feel that their sincere wish to see the club hold its high place next year and for many years to come is more than warranted.

THIRD BATTALION

Winner of Fir

The dream of previous years has at last become a reality; Western has three cadet companies and a battalion composed entirely of Western men.

Western's battalion, namely the 3rd Battalion, 3rd Regiment, comprising Companies H, K and L, made its initial appearance on the school lawn November 3, 1921, when it was first formed. This was the first time Western had seen a battalion of her own in action and those who witnessed it were very favorably impressed.

Every Monday, formation and drill were held on the streets and the school lot. Due to the able instruction given by the officers, the companies soon rounded into shape, and, consequently, formed a well-balanced battalion.

Hardly had the new command sprung into existence when on November 15, 1921, it marched over to Central High School to cheer for the football team in its initial engagement with Central. On the way over all movements possible were executed and the benefit received by this march was invaluable.

On December 5, 1921, the first battalion dance of the year was held in the school library and was such a success that three more followed during the remainder of the school year.

The long-hoped-for Springfield rifles finally came the last day of February and in less than two weeks the battalion was using them in drill. The interest in the work was doubled and the men soon became proficient in the manual of arms. The finishing touch had been put on the military appearance of the unit.

In March 22, 1922, the march to Central was again executed, this time with rifles. When the entire brigade had been formed in the Central stadium, the officers were presented their commissions by Gen. Harbord, United States Army. The brigade then passed in review and the ceremonies terminated.

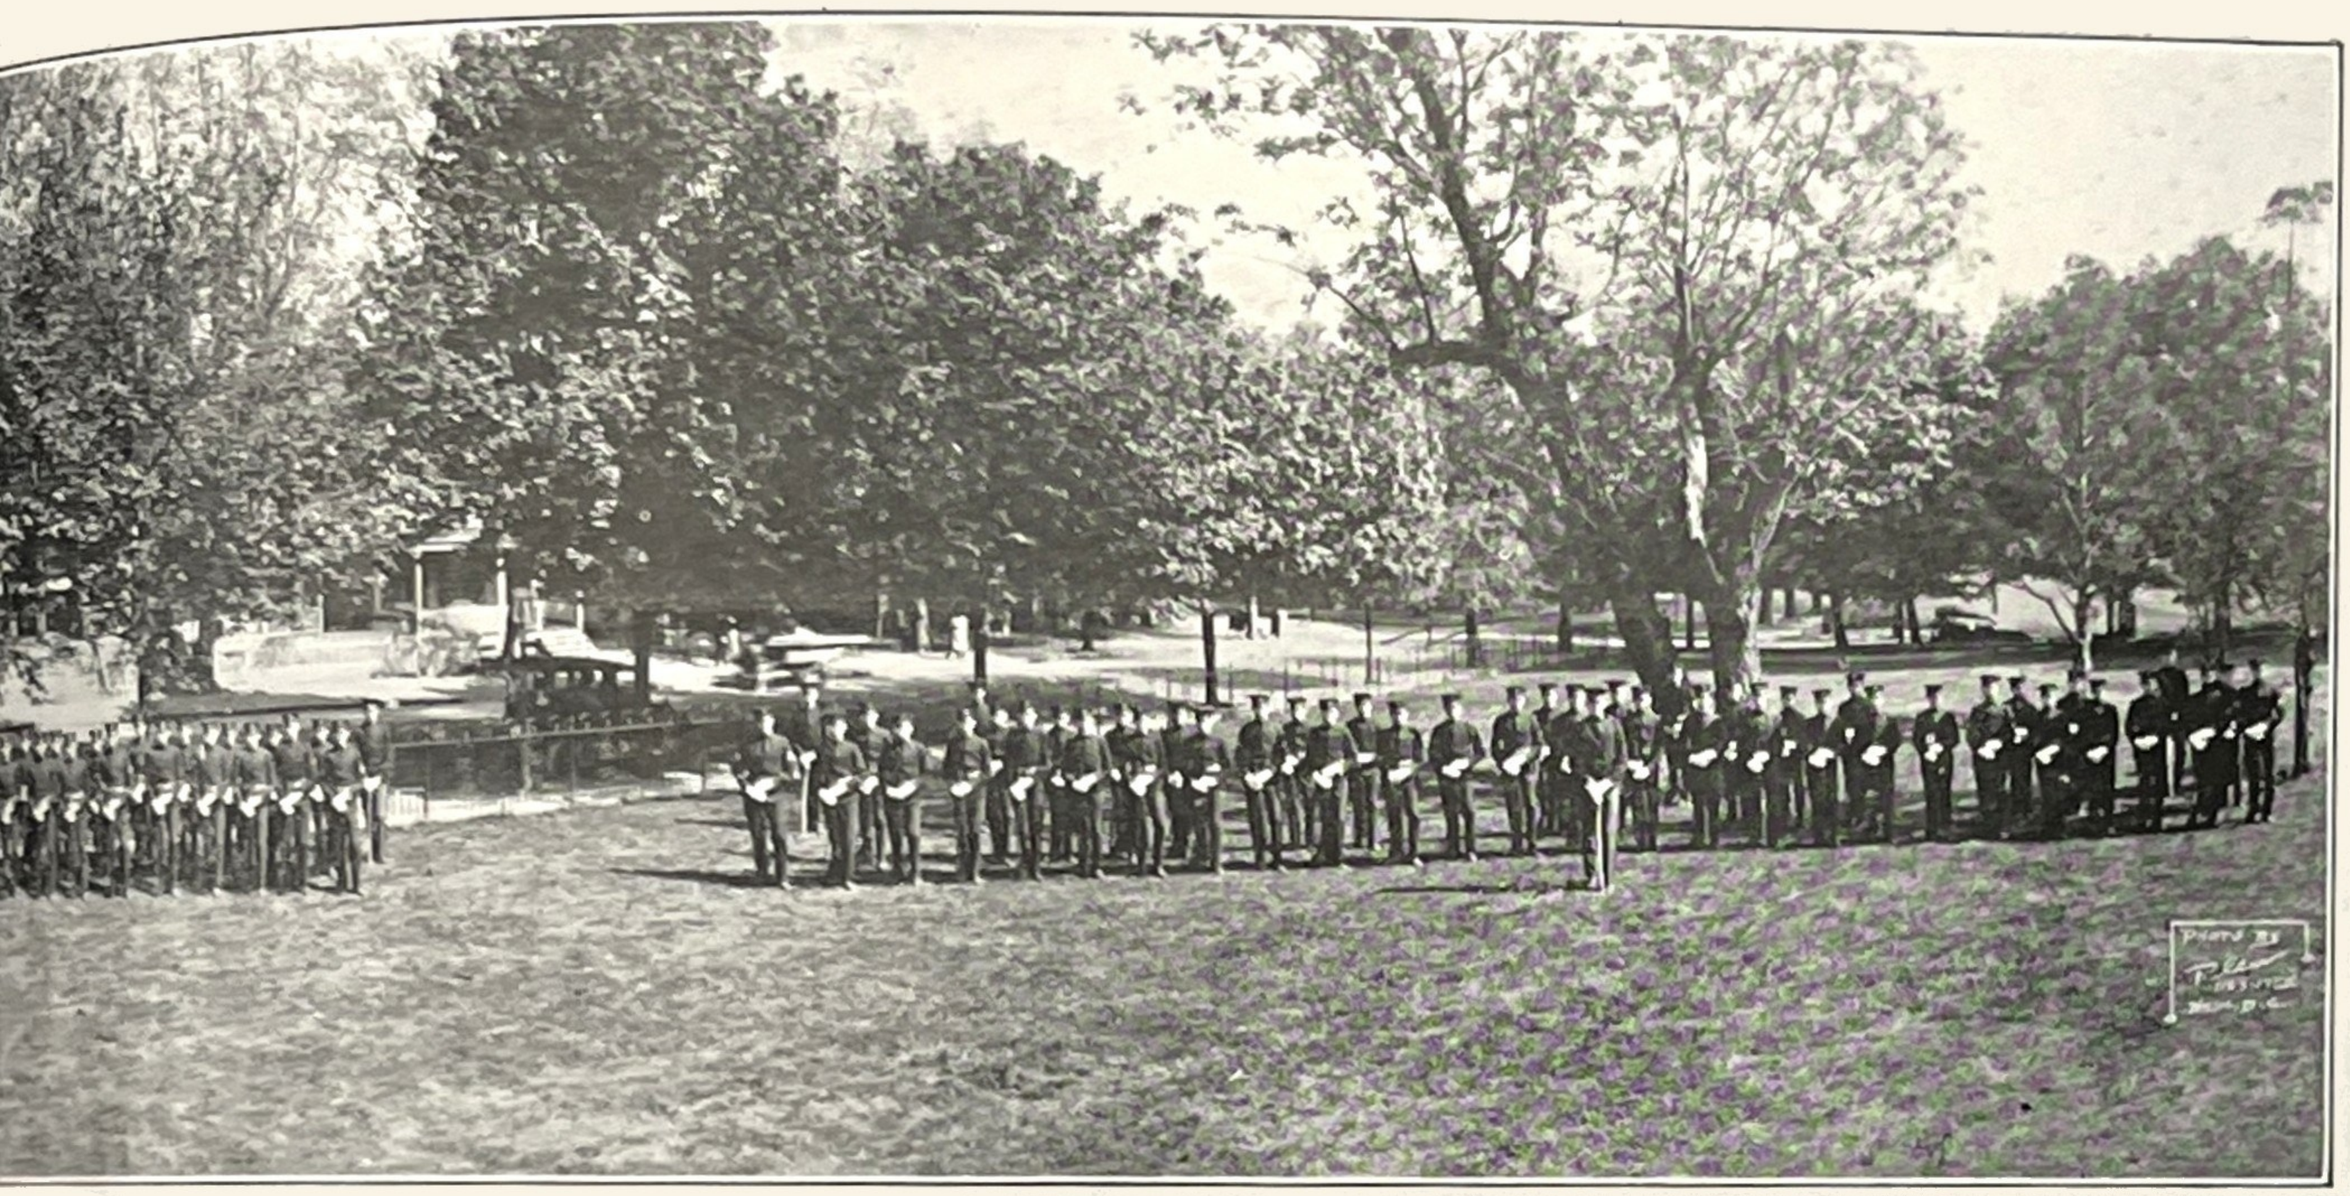

During the month of April the program of commands for the first annual battalion competitive drill was published. From then until a few days before the drill the men were put through very extensive training in preparation for the big event. In the extremely warm weather it was anything but pleasant work, but the men stood behind the officers with the determination of presenting a drill worthy of a Western organization.

During this period the battalion marched in the Grant memorial parade and showed the others how to keep a straight marching line.

On May 10, "Cadet Day," an exhibition battalion drill was held on the school lot, when the men showed the school how the West Point Cadets drill.

In drawings for the competitive, Western drew No. 1 in the order in which the battalions would appear.

Then came the day—when Western inaugurated the new annual battalion event, marching

THIRD REGIMENT

...ion Competitive

on the Central stadium, May 22, 1922, promptly at one o'clock.

A better drill than the men presented that day could hardly have been wished for. It was a wonderful sight to see the three companies in line, executing the manual of arms with so much snap and such clock-like regularity. It was an equally gratifying sight to see three companies pass in review with each company front as straight as an arrow. The other movements on the program were executed with such accuracy in distance between companies, that no auxiliary commands had to be given, and, consequently, the battalion completed the movements in record time.

Then came the day that even eclipsed "the day of days." On May 24, 1922, the eight battalions or the entire brigade formed in the Central stadium at four o'clock, to await the decision of the judges. The first event on the program was the presentation of the 3rd Regiment colors. It seemed more than an hour before the decision was rendered but when it was made known by the brigade adjutant, the 3rd Battalion, 3rd Regiment, marched to the front to receive first honors. This battalion received a silver cup known as the Craigie Cup and the major a gold medal, both presented by Gen. Pershing. Second and third honors went to McKinley battalions. The brigade then passed in review before Gen. Pershing and again Western's lines were as clean cut as before. The Western battalion marched off the field the proudest cadets in the brigade.

MAURICE HOFFMAN,
Major, 3rd Battalion, 3rd Regiment.

TO THE THIRD BATTALION

"Forward, march," was the cry, and 'twas forward they went
To battle for Western by whom they were sent
To return with a trophy. In triumph they came
With the badges of victory, the medals of fame.
Not a rival begrudged them the honors, their due,
Not a man but was sure that the judges spoke true
When they said that our champions deserved all they won.
All was well as all is when the hard work is done
And the thanks and the praise that from Western may fall
Onto those who brought honor are by far much too small,
For the 3rd Battalion was too good for the rest.
It out-tried all the others. Its best was the best.

HISTORY OF H COMPANY

When H Company was formed this year the one idea that was foremost in the minds of the officers and which they endeavored to impress upon the men was this: That while in years past it was considered "better to lose in H than to win in any other company," they were determined to make it better to win in H than in any other company.

In less than two weeks from the opening of school H Company was fully organized and cracking through the first elements of drill with their full personnel of officers, which follows: Captain R. K. Lamb, First Lieut. E. Meechling, Second Lieut. G. V. H. Moseley, First Sergt. Ragsdale, Sergts. Craighill, Evans, Duehay and Libbey, Corpls. Barr, Jones, Reeve, Garnett, Smith and Cogswell.

The officers planned to begin the drill in the "School of the Soldier" and proceed through a regular course of instruction drills, following these by drills for discipline. Unfortunately, however, the late arrival of the equipment which had been requisitiond months before severely retarded the progress.

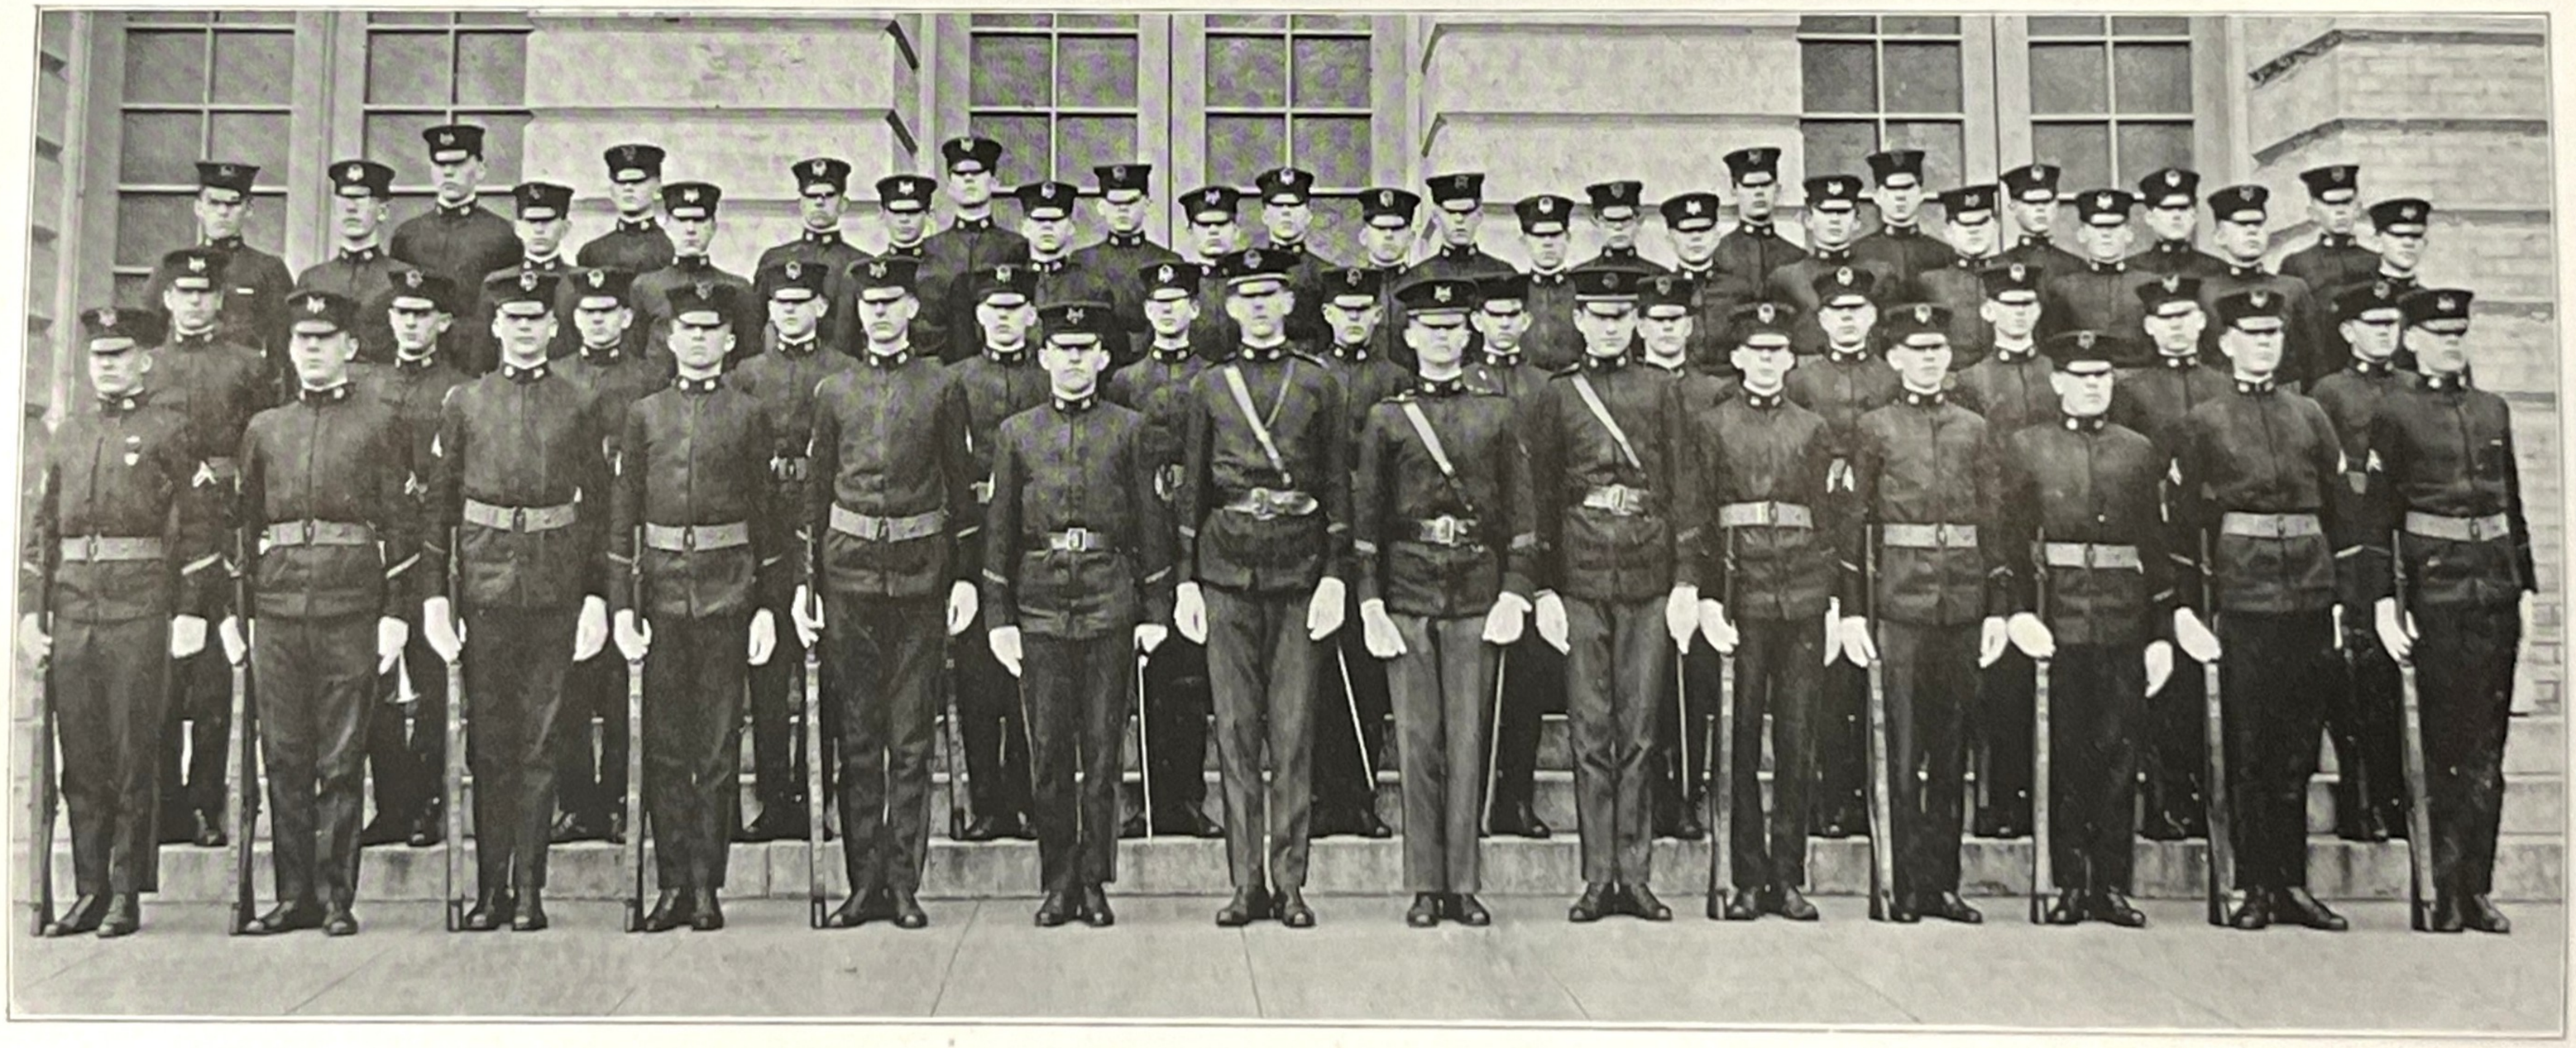

But while the other schools were having a slump in drill because of this delay, Western's companies maintained their morale in fine shape. They had by February covered the entire drill manual save for the work with the rifles in "Manual of Arms." All drills until then had been for instruction only; after February, however, they became more intensive, being for the purpose of inculcating discipline.

After the "School of the Soldier and Squad" which were dwelt upon in detail, H Company began work in platoons. Heretofore, very little of this work had been done, but realizing the importance of the platoon, the captains of Western's companies dwelt upon platoon work to a very great degree, with the most fruitful of results. Platoon competitions were staged, and inter-company platoon drills were held in which the 2nd Platoon of H Company was victorious over those of K and L. The 1st Platoon, which at first was not of the caliber of the second, has improved until there is no choice between them.

After the arrival of equipment all interest was focused upon the "Manual of Arms" which seemed to put new life into the men. As soon as the companies had mastered the handling of their pieces, extended order was begun and for the first time in Western's history it was made to have the interest of actual warfare. War principles were employed and the attention and desire to work thus aroused in the men, was focused upon the drill by means of a skirmish.

The company, as the competitive draws near, is a fit competitor for any in the brigade and though the officers may not predict, they feel that the Adjutant should have a pleasant story to tell Western on June 6.

HISTORY OF L COMPANY

Following one of the most strenuous recruiting campaigns ever launched by the cadets, Western's dream of a battalion became a reality. H, K and L Companies composed Western's first battalion.

The commissioned and non-commissioned personnel who were assigned to L Company are as follows: Capt. W. W. Shea, commanding; 1st Lieut. R. B. Armstrong; 2d Lieut. F. Hall; 1st Sergt. Clark, Sergts. Armstrong, Edwards, Grainger, Craven, Hoge, Berrall and Ten Eyck. The company was completely organized and snapped into drill within ten days after the opening of school. The men were measured for uniforms immediately after organization of the company. The first consignment of uniforms arrived within a month after measurement.

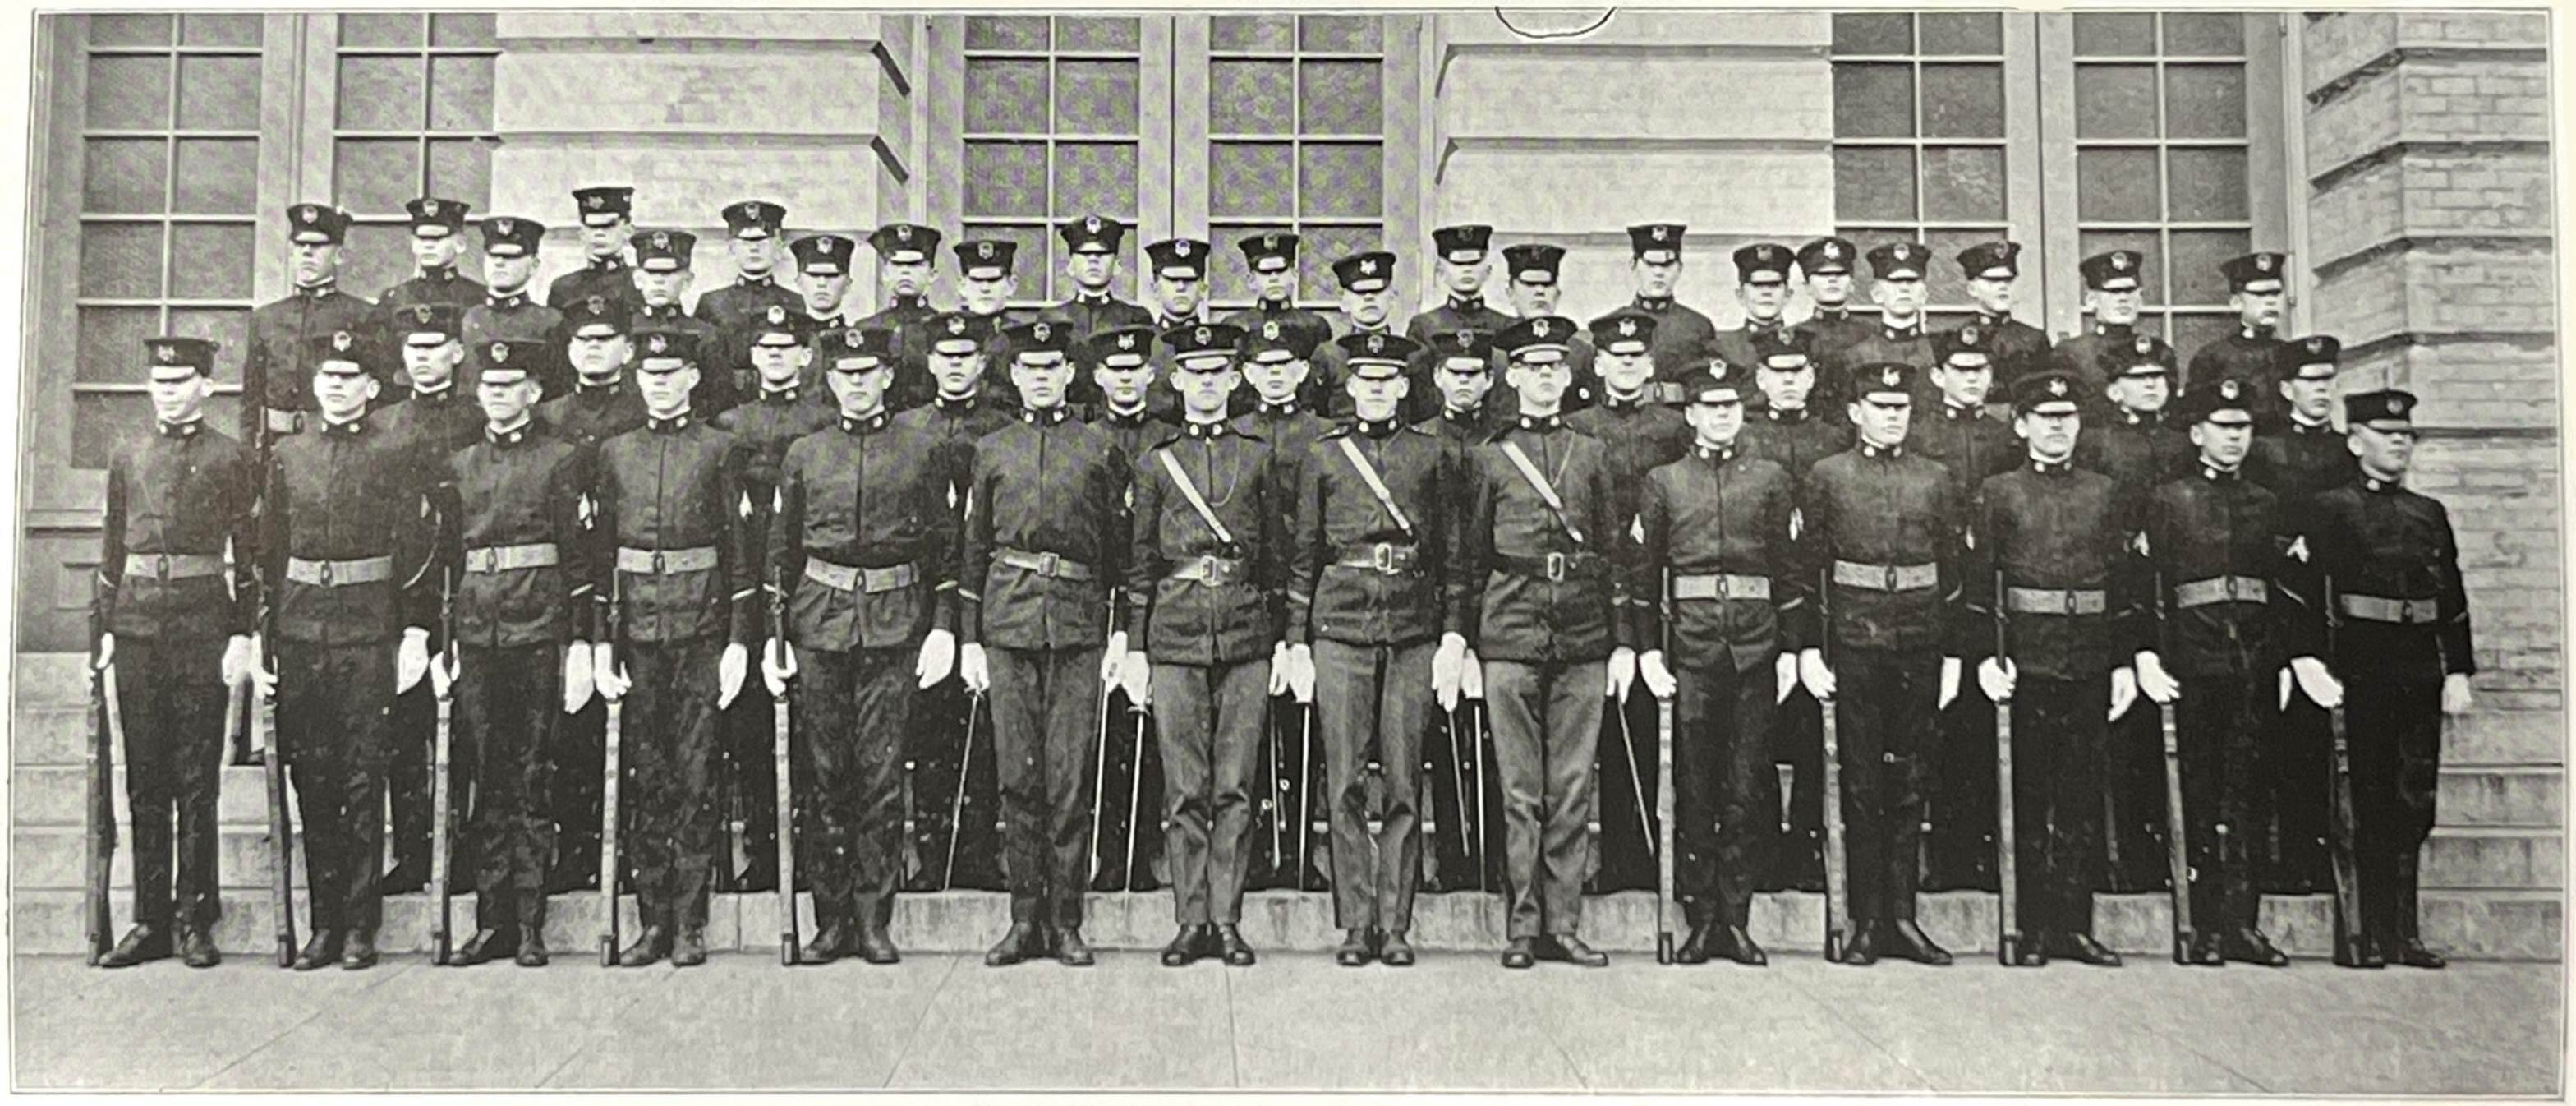

At the beginning of the year a requisition for new equipment was made to the War Department. Due to unfortunate delay in securing this equipment the company was compelled to drill without rifles for the entire semester. As modern methods of military training necessitate early use of rifles, the great handicap can easily be seen. Not only was the program of training interrupted, but it was one of the severest moral tests a cadet company has ever experiencd. The manner in which L Company weathered this test is one of the most remarkable demonstrations of loyalty and spirit ever witnessed in the brigade.

Captain Shea's policy of training has differed from that used by cadet captains in the past. L Company has been trained as a practical military unit and not as an exhibition competitive drill unit. Platoon drills have been conducted by the platoon commanders under supervision of the captain, and in this manner the lieutenants have been on their own initiative to a greater extent than ever before.

Platoon and squad competitions have been conducted at regular intervals, and through these a strong spirit of competition has been developed within this company. Demonstrations in rifle and automatic pistol firing and lectures in minor tactics have been conducted by Captain Shea. As soon as the company has covered the mechanism of extended order drill, combat maneuvers will be taken up. The purpose of this policy of training has been to give the men a more practical and intelligent knowledge of modern warfare. This policy of training has tripled the interest of the men in the cadet corps, and has caused them to plunge into the drill with spirit and vigor and interest that cannot be surpassed. The result is that L Company is recognized as one of the highest disciplined and best drilled companies in the brigade.

The annual Competitive Drill will be June 5 and 6, L Company drilling June 5, about 2:15 P. M. L Company is going to snap through the competitive in "West Point Style," then "Watch the Adjutant."

HISTORY OF K COMPANY

After one of the greatest recruiting campaigns ever launched at Western, directed by the Military Committee and the Candidate Officers, three companies were formed. This is the first year there has been a K Company at Western, and as yet it has no tradition. but for some months the company has been recognized as a formidable contender for competitive drill honors. The commissioned officers are Capt. John T. Hazel, commanding; first lieutenant, Ewing Simpson; second lieutenant, Leroy Piser.

Squad drills were held for several weeks and the details perfected. Platoon drills were then inaugurated, which gave the lieutenants an opportunity to develop their respective platoons. Platoon competitives were held and inter-platoon rivalry became keen. The extended order drill was taken up in the first part of April, and with the system of training initiated by the Western officers this year, the extended order has been instructive and very interesting.

Special permission, granted by Col. Craigie, U. S. A., military instructor, to wear khaki breeches and shirts, on other than battalion drill days, has facilitated the extended order drill.

The delay in issuing the Springfie'd rifles, which did not arrive until March, was a severe test on the morale of the men. However, due to the efforts of the Western officers, the seemingly inevitable was averted. The rate of absence has been exceptionally low; not one case of "skipping" has been noted, nor has a cadet in the company been court-martialed.

All the year the Company has had a co-operative spirit between officers and men that is rarely found developed to such a degree. This had made the men more than willing to work and they possess a "Work-until-they-drop" spirit!

The Competitive is held on June 5 and 6. K Company is the first Company to drill in the afternoon of the second and deciding day. The company has drilled hard and the prevailing spirit is "one for all and all for Western.'"

IN CONCLUSION

The Western Breeze wishes to express its appreciation for the splendid support, both moral and financial, given it by the students, faculty and alumni of Western High School. Without this support it would hardly have been possible to produce a paper to compare with the Breeze of 1922.

It has been the policy of the Breeze to grasp every possible chance to improve the paper; in fact, by enlarging the sheet and thereby increasing the volume of interesting news, the Western Breeze began the present year with a great improvement. This progressive policy has been followed up throughout the past two semesters. Although the management has not been conservative, it has handled the business end excellently, and can proudly say that, financially, the Breeze has succeeded. This is truly an accomplishment, since the paper has been filled with expensive photographs and cartoons on up-to-date subjects.

In conclusion, those connected with the Breeze wish to say that they have made every effort to produce a paper that would be a credit to Western and one that might serve as a standard for future publications.

STUDENT COMMITTEE

In order to perpetuate further the principles of Education, Knowledge, and Progress as embodied in the Western seal, the first successful step ever advanced at Western toward student cooperation was taken on January 2, 1922, when Dr. Newton called the representatives of all the school activities into the office to discuss the formation of a Student Committee. "To promote the general welfare of the school" was the primary purpose of the committee, which was organized to bring together the various interests in the school that they might work as a unit to produce a genuine centralized efficiency.

The personnel of the committee is in every respect representative of the students in the school in that its members have been previously selected as leaders in their respective activities, which, according to the membership clause of the constitution, include all major officers, consisting of all presidents of recognized school organizations, officers of the Senior Class, captains of all major athletic teams, major and captain of cadets, editors-in-chief of the Breeze and YEAR BOOK.

After the election of Helen Newman chairman, Walcott Shea vice-chairman and Margaret Reese secretary, a constitution was adopted which gave impetus to direct action. The members attended meetings regularly in the office on Fridays, at 12:45, and through Dr. Newton's instigation immediately began to accomplish progressive results.

The first consideration of the committee, that of assemblies, resulted in the adoption of a schedule of assemblies under the management of the several organizations. The marked success of the assembly plan demonstrated that the students have the initiative to produce instructive and entertaining performances and to supervise their presentation in a well-ordered assembly. Another of the perceptive achievements of the committee was the maintenance of order in the corridors and the provision for students to remain in the lunchroom rather than in the assembly hall during free periods. As a means of facilitating the work of the teachers and Dr. Newton, the members of the committee secured a complete file of program cards from the students. Following the action taken by the Home and School Association in extending an associate membership to the Student Committee, the committee members assisted in forwarding the "Parents' Membership Drive." Banners were placed in the stadium to indicate the location of the Western section in order to get all Westerners together for better cheering. The last undertaking of the year, that of cooperating with the alumni in making arrangements for festivities on Alumni Day, June 2, was a suitable termination of the work of the committee for the season.

The firm foundation on which the Student Committee has been established and the list of material accomplishments resulting from the unity of school interests has clearly illustrated the value of this kind of coordination and should furnish an incentive for the major officers of next year to enlarge upon the work of the pioneer members.

W. H. S. CIVIC ASSOCIATION, 1922

Early this year the energetic Civics Class organized into a Civic Association, simi!ar to that formed each year, to better, to lead in bettering, and to keep at its best "Our" school. This organization has been famous in the past as a friend and helper of all that is "Western."

During the year several successful "Cleaner Western" campaigns have been conducted and in connection with these movements red and white trash baskets have been placed in and around the school.

The question of bulletin boards was also brought up, and with contributiions from the members, two large boards were purchased. Following this a letter was written to the school officials suggesting that in future building or remodeling of the school sufficient bulletin boards be placed in the corridors to prevent the defacing of the walls. The association received a favorable reply and Western expects to have this idea carried out in the additions to the school.

In reply to the Civic Association's offer to assist the Home and School Association in their activities the former organization was asked to conduct a membership drive. The drive was willingly entered into by the members of the association. Many minor achievements too numerous to be listed have tended to improve the general conditions about the school, all of which have been made possib!e by the cooperation which the students have given the association.

Every seven weeks new officers were elected, carrying out still further one of the purposes of the Civics Class, that of training the pupils in leadership and public speaking. Those elected are as follows: For the first term, president, John Hazel; vice-President, William Brown; secretary, Helen Newman; sergeant-at-arms, William Pence; for the second term, president, William Pence; vice-President, Helen Newman; secretary, Catherine Ellis; sergeant-at-arms, Bruce Green; for the third term, president, Maurice Hoffman; vice-president, Ruth Douglas; secretary, Helen Newman; sergeant-at-arms, John Hazel; for the fourth term, president, Maurice Hoffman; vice-President, Catherine Ellis; secretary, Helen Newman; sergeant-at- arms, William Meloy; and for the fifth term, president, Charles Walker; vice-president, Charlotte Terrell; secretary, Edythe Buckler; sergeant-at-arms, William Browning.

W. H. S. DEBATING SOCIETY

Early in the fall of '21, the Debating Society of Western reorganized with the following officers: President, Perry Gard; vice-president, Helen Newman; treasurer, Robert Lamb, and Secretary, Elizabeth Dorsey. Upon the resignation of Robert Lamb, Russell Jewell was elected to fill his office. Miss Cushing and Mr. Martin, as faculty advisors, offered the members of this society valuable assistance, instructing them in the best methods of correct debating.

Open debates on the most interesting questions of the day were given at several meetings. However, the activities of the organization were not confined to its meetings, for two debates were given before the school and one was held with a team from Emerson Institute.

The first question debated before the school was that of Government ownership of mines. The negative of the question, supported by Perry Gard, Herbert Clark and Russell Jewell, won the debate by a close margin over the affirmative speakers, Van Mosely, Helen Newman and Miles Flint.

Later in the year two teams, composed entirely of underclass members, staged an interesting debate at the Student Committee assembly arranged by the Debating Society. The affirmative side of the question, Resolved: That the Philippine Islands be given their independence, was supported by Roger Robb, Oliver Gasch and John Poole, the negative by George Gibbs, Duncan Clark and Norman Miller, who won the debate.

The most prominent feature of the year was the Emerson-Western conflict. Resolved: That the Conference on the Limitation of Armaments was of benefit to the United States, formed a basis for heated argument resulting in a 2-1 victory for the Emersonians. This victory evened the score between these two illustrious institutions, Western winning in the annual debate last year.

ELIZABETH DORSEY,
Secretary.

THE SPANISH CLUB

The spirit of "Brinque, viejecita Western, brinque" has been marked during the past year in the work of El Espejo Espanol, Western's Spanish Club. The acquisition of a name and a constitution seemed to inspire all with new ideas and enthusiasm, while an increased membership made varied and interesting programs possible. Of great importance, too, in attaining success, have been the support of Mr. Devitt, our faculty advisor, and the faithfulness of the active officers, who are — president, Dorothy, Arnold; vice-president, Orme Libbey; secretary, Ivy Bruce; treasurer, Anne Gleason, and sergeant-at-arms, Paul Frisby.

Short plays and dances in costume, with talks appealing to the intellect as well as the sense of humor, made the meetings jolly and worthwhile. From the talks a knowledge was obtained of famous men and noted places of the Spanish-speaking world, while plays, games and rhymes were an aid to fluent speech. Meetings were held every two weeks, a different program committee being selected for each.

The program which El Espejo presented in the series of Student Committee assemblies consisted of two scenes representing the bull-fights and tangoes of Spanish life. A large cast of gypsies, courtiers and flower girls supported Eugene LeMerle, Alfred May and Orme Libbey in the leading parts, and furnished plenty of "local color."

With the advantage which the opening of Spanish to first year pupils now gives to those who join the Spanish Club in the future, the members who are leaving feel sure that El Espejo will become still more flourishing. It is their hope that many will enjoy the privileges of this club and that next year will present as pleasant a retrospect as this year.

DOROTHY ARNOLD,
President.

THE FRENCH CLUB

An enthusiastic group of French students met early in the fall with Madame Bimont to talk over plans for the reorganization of "En Avant." The selection of officers, consisting of Margaret Reese, president; Helen Newman vice-President; Frances Pace, secretary, and Katharin Spencer, treasurer, gave indication of a year of much profit and pleasure. At the first meeting of the second semester, Adrian Busick was elected to succeed Katharin Spencer who graduated with the February class.

French was the language in which the meetings were conducted, though the program consisted of both educational and social features. The meetings offered a variety of entertainment since they were held at the homes of the members of the club. Topics of interest based on French geography, history and art, and short plays formed the major part of the programs which were always supplemented by an anecdote or current topic given by Miss Rupli.

The big event of the year for "En Avant," the "Soiree Francaise," which included scenes from several short comedies, songs and monologues, was presented on May 26, as a benefit performance for the cadets. The whole affair, which was given under the direction of Charlotte Harriman, was so successful that all the members of the club had reason to be proud of their "Soiree Francaise."

Scenes from "The Three Musketeers," made up the program presented at the French Club Assembly, the fifth of the Student Committee Assemblies, which served as an introduction to the "Soiree Francaise."

"We'll learn French and have a good time about it" was the prevailing spirit in the club throughout the year, due to Madame Bimont's interest and encouragement. Her ever-present enthusiasm helped more than many people know, for it was Madame who directed the French Club Assembly and "Soiree Francaise," Madame who planned or helped to plan the various programs, and Madame who attended all the meetings and put her whole self into them.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' GLEE CLUBS

"We may not know how to sing, but we're willing to learn" was the spirit that existed when the glee clubs were organized early last October.

The election of officers resulted in the selection of Ellen Stuart and Alfred May as presidents of the respective clubs, both of whom have been identified with musical activities of the school in previous years. The following additional officers were elected: Evelyn Kiidwell and Benjamin Thomason, vice-presidents; Abbie Green and Edgar Spain, secretary and treasurer, and Dorothy Tschiffely and Leroy Piser, librarians. The vacancy caused by the resignation of Evelyn Kidwell, was filled by Sally Finney. The officers acted also as examiners in testing the voices of new members, under the direction of their supervisor, Miss Lynch.

We like to remember what the glee clubs did for the school especially on two occasions, the "1921 Hop Along Revue" and the "Musical Assembly." We recall vividly the scene where those quaint-costumed girls pelted John Paul Jones, the singing master, with red roses as he sang "Good-Bye, Girls, I'm Through" and again the boy's clever art, featuring every-day school events.

A large part of the success of the "Musical Assembly" presented as the first Student Committee Assemb'y was due to the glee clubs. They showed their versatility by arranging the program so as to include not only chorus work with so'o parts, but also a double sextette.

The whole year's work has been successful and valuable to the members of the organization. Pep and enthusiasm, willingness and reliability have made each Wednesday meeting interesting and enjoyable.

THE ORCHESTRA

"Great things sometimes come in small packages." At least this seems to have been the case with the orchestra of 1921-22; for while it boasted of only about a dozen members, nevertheless, its ability to accomplish great things was manifested.

The three pinnacles of success of the orchestra correspond to the high-water marks of the school in general; namely, the "1921 Hop Along Revue," the march, "Musical Assembly," and the "Spring Play." In each instance the tireless efforts of Miss Lynch the faithfulness of the members and the helpfulness of the alumni and former members made success possible.

THE BANJO, MANDOLIN AND GUITAR CLUB

In order to satisfy the demand for jazz music which could be used for informal school dances the Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club was organized.

The initial and star performance of the club at the "Musical Assembly" was so enthusiastically applauded that their number had to be repeated.

The efficient work of Sally Finney as pianist and director was invaluable to the club's success.

THE PIANISTS' CLUB

The latest in Western's musical organizations was the club for pianists which made its first appearance March 17.

The object of the club was three-fold, to give major music pupils practice in playing before the public, to broaden their knowledge of the best composers, and to give pleasure to the members.

Not only were the original purposes carried out, but additional features such as violin, 'cello, vocal and piano solos were contributed by guests of the club. Ten-minute illustrated talks on the great masters added to the interest of the meetings. Arline Gilbert, upon whose suggestion the club was started, has had charge of all the arrangements for programs.

THE ART CLUB

A new association was formed in Western this year—the Art Club—for the purpose of organizing the school talent and taking charge of the illustrations of the Western Breeze and the YEAR BOOK.

Many art enthusiasts came out for the first meeting, when the following officers were elected: President, Jessie Adkins; vice-president, Harry Schereschewsky; secretary, Catherine Ellis. Under the able leadership of the president, the club flourished and accomplished many things.

A contest for Breeze Cartoonist, which was won by Alva Daughton, was the first achievement. Then later in the year the club conducted a Prize Poster Contest for "The Rivals," the Spring Play, which was eagerly entered into by many students. The first honor was awarded to Anne Gleaves, a Freshman, and the second was given to Carl Woerner. In addition to these campaigns, various club members contributed to the Breeze and the Westerner. Carl Woerner furnished many of the cartoons in the former, and Jessie Adkins, Henry Morgan and Carl Woerner, all of whom contributed to last year's Westerner, drew most of the illustrations in the '22 annual.

The club, no doubt, might have accomplished more if it had been organized earlier rin the year and if the membership had been larger. However, as Harry Sherry, Earle Moser, Henry Lamar, and other artists in the making, will still be at Western next year, to them we bequeath the mantle of the Art Club of 1922.

THE RADIO CLUB

Out of the old Wireless Club which has been in existence for several years at Western, there has developed a larger, more up-to-date organization this year—the Radio Club. The purpose of the club has been primarily to give to those students who are interested in radio a chance to learn more about the scientific side of the subject and the construction of instruments. Miss Wallace, the faculty advisor of the club, gave several enlightening talks and some of the more experienced members demonstrated the various instruments.

During the first part of the year, the members endeavored to learn the Morse code and operate the wireless, but with the acquisition of the new receiving set, most of the interest has centered around the phones, and "listening in" has become one of the main attractions of the meetings. Committees were selected to visit the radio clubs in the other local schools and get new ideas for the use of the club.

For the Radio Club Assembly, which is scheduled for June 10, an amplifier has been secured which makes it possible to give a concert for the entertainment of the whole school.

With this enthusiastic start it is hoped that in future years, the Radio Club of Western will become one of its most active and beneficial organizations.

The officers of the club were as follows: Oliver Frank, president; Karl Kellerman, vice-president; Elizabeth Brady, secretary-treasurer.

THE FRIENDSHIP CLUB

The saying, "Two heads are better than one, proved true in the case of Western's Friendship Clubs, Soangetaha and Netabh, which, by combining, have accomplished more effective results.

Good officers are the first essential to any successful society. The Friendship Club this year was fortunate in having for its leader, Mrs. Frank Elliot, and for officers, Frances Pace, president; Dorothy Smith, vice-president; Marjorie Pickens, secretary, and Martha Macatee, treasurer.

The aims of the Friendship Club—to acquaint girls with girls, to have a good time, and to serve others—were entirely carried out. Their social activities brought them into contact with girls from other Washington High Schools. Two big dances, one at Cherrydale Vacation Lodge and another at Sycamore Island, several hikes and picnic lunches featured in their "good times." Bruen Home and the District Orphanage were recipients of numerous visits and gifts from the Soangetaha members, as part of their social service work.

If good officers are one essential to a successful organization, money is another. The Friendship Club found candy sales and a play, "Love Letters," fine ways of supplying the treasury.

One of fthe assemblies planned by the Student Committee was in charge of the Soangetaha Club. The fashion show which they presented offered many good ideas to the girls of Western.

The prospects seem bright for the Friendship Club of 1922-23 with such officers as Marjorie Smith as president; Marie Suter, vice-president; Lillian Pace, secretary, and Margaret Watts, treasurer.

DRAMATICS

Western Dramatics

1921-1922

When a committee of Congressmen was investigating conditions at Western prior to the introduction of a bill for appropriations, and learned that Westerners suggested, as one of the most urgent needs, a new assembly hall with the proper acoustics for plays, one of them could not understand the usefulness of dramatic work to high school students. However, the value of rudimentary dramatic training is considered of such importance that a course in the drama has been added to the English curriculum.

The two real dramatic accomplishments of the year were the first Western Revue, "Hop Along" and "The Rivals," by Sheridan. The former was a vaudeville including nearly 100 students, while the latter was the traditional Western spring play.

The vaudeville success was assured by its wide range of appeal. The Girls' Glee Club presented a singing class of former days whose beauty and voices delighted the audience with their charm and melody. A group of Freshmen girls danced the Irish jig straight from the "auld sod." A graceful interpretation of the Pavlowa Gavotte was given by Margaret Bain and Donald Kline. "A Bum Show" of jokes, and songs by the saxophone comedians, Dawson and May, created a diversion. Perhaps the funniest thing on the program was "The Pot Boiler," a short comedy in which Carl Woerner acted the exasperated playwright, while Ellwood Simpson, his protege, caused ceaseless laughter by following closely at his heels. Helen Newman gave every one a delightful shock as the vampire, with Orme Libbey equally scheming as the villain. "Sy" Strayer made a handsome hero opposite Helen Wesson, the heroine, "so pure and cool and white," while "Papa" Grainger eminated "ruined" old age. Ham and Trom Bone, alias the Lamar Brothers, exhibited an original brand of humor. The grand finale was a series of songs, jokes, medleys and supposed school life, which was concluded by "Hop Along."

Each year, unlimited time and effort is spent upon the spring play in order to make it an artistic achievement. The result of the 1922 choice, "The Rivals," was a justification to the directors, Miss Gardner, Mrs. Bain and Miss Merrill.

Mary Griffith, as Mrs. Malaprop, was a favorite with her "words so ingeniously misapplied without being mispronounced," and her ability to change her expression from one of mortification at Lydia's rude behaviour, to one of flattering interest at Sir Anthony's gallantry. Lydia Languish, the romance-loving heroine, bitterly disclaiming, "Oh, that I should live to be called 'spinster'!" was well taken by Helen Wesson. The characteristics of Sir Anthony Absolute—a gruff voice, a dignified posture and a gouty foot—were realistically emphasized by Otis Turner who could work himself into a rage on the smallest provocation, and a second later suavely compliment Mrs. Malaprop. The amusing parts of Bob Acres and Sir Lucius O'Trigger were expertly handled by Bassett Trudgian and Orme Libbey. Acres drew much laughter when, on the eve of the duel, with quivering voice and shawing knees, he said, "O! Sir Lucius. If I were not with you I might almost think I was afraid." Orme Libbey added another notch to his reputation as a versatile actor by his finished performance as Sir Lucius.

The maid, Lucy, portrayed by Margaret Bain, with "a mask of silliness with a pair of sharp eyes under it for my own interest," constantly shuffled the correspondence entrusted to her care. ary Stuart, though new to Western's stage, sustained the part of Julia creditably. Capt. Absolute, "Sy" Strayer, and Faulkland William Scott, were lovers of two different natures; the one "can throw for a large stake and losing, throw again," whtile the other had "a heart set immediately on one subject." James Jester was a good old servant, David, whose "master is, or was, Squire Acres," while Ellwood Simpson served Capt. Absolute "with submission."

The remarkable success of the 1920-21 Dramatic season was repeated this year. It is hoped that the precedent established of having an annual Western Revue, given to encourage dramatic talent in the school, will be an incentive for another, and more characteristic production for the fall of 1922.

The idea that the Dramatic Association would be more efficient if divided into departments, such as lighting, stage, advertising, costuming, etc., was adopted in the early fall when Lawrence Hunt was president and the plan was found to be successful. It was decided that the fairest way of increasing membership was by try-outs for the candidates. Sixteen new members were admitted in this manner, making a total enrollment of sixty-seven. Seven members were dropped on account of failure to give the secretary a written excuse for three consecutive absences.

Pins with the design of comic and tragic masques with "W. H. S. Dramatic Association" in print under them were adopted for members who had taken active part in a stage production and had thus proved themselves worthy of membership.

"W" REGULATIONS

Adopted by Western High School Athletic Board

A new set of requirements concerning the awarding of the "W" has recently been drawn up by the Athletic Committee of the Faculty and has been approved by Dr. Newton. The purpose of such a set of regulations, as pointed out by members of the Committee, is to raise the standard of the "W", by making more definite the requirements for winning a letter and for retaining the letter when won.

Good School Citizenship Required

Especial emphasis is placed upon the interpretation of the phrase "good standing," which, as explained in the rules, is synonymous with good school citizenship. In other words, the right kind of sportsmanship, fine school spirit, and commendable scholarship, which combined make the good school citizen, will be as requisite in determining the winner of the "W" as good playing.

The Athletic Committee, which was appointed by Dr. Newton at the beginning of the year, consists of Mr. Green, Miss Meyers, Miss Gardner, Miss Dessez and Miss Houghton.

Regulations Concerning W

The block "W", together with the certificate of the Western High School, shall be given to Western High School students in good standing for participation in football, basketball, baseball, track, tennis, swimming and rifle shooting under the following conditions:

1. Playing requirements (decided by manager's records).

2. The above phrase "in good standing" shall be interpreted to include the following items:

A. Sportsmanship.

(Decided by coach and team captain.)

The requirements in sportsmanship shall mean unselfish team work including the avoidance of destructive criticism, clean playing on the field, and the right attitude toward opponents, officials and coaches at all times.

B. School Spirit.

(Decided by Principal and Athletic Committee.)

The requirements for school spirit shall mean regular attendance at school and classes except when in the judgment of the principal and the Athletic Committee there is adequate excuse, the proper attitude in classes and around the school, and the support of all constructive school activities.

C. Scholarship.

The requirements for scholarship shall mean that no student failing to maintain the athletic standards of scholarship, during the season and up to the time of award of letters shall receive a "W."

3. Methods of awarding "W's".

Recommendation for the honor of the "W" and the certificate shall originate with the coach, manager and captain of each team, acting as a committee, and final award shall be made only upon approval of the Principal and the Athletic Committee.

4. Withdrawals of the "W".

A. Causes. The "W" may be withdrawn on such failure to maintain the standards of a letter as illustrated by the following:

1. Poor sportsmanship as defined in "A" of "2."

2. Poor school spirit as defined in "B" of "2."

3. Signal failure to maintain scholarship standing after receiving the "W", when such failure is due to utter lack of effort to meet the scholarship requirements of the school.

B. Methods of withdrawal.

Recommendation for withdrawal shall originate either with the "W" Club or the Athletic Committee or the Principal and final withdrawal may be made only upon approval of the Principal and the Athletic Committee. The "W" and certificate shall be returned in person to the Principal in the presence of the Athletic Committee or their representatives.

5. Type of "W".

Only one "W" shall be awarded to a student during his school career. Additional "W's" may be indicated by some method to be determined later.

6. Regulations Concerning Class Numerals.

The above regulations, with the exception of the playing requirements which shall be defined hereafter, shall apply also to the award and withdrawal of class numerals.

7. Personnel of the Athletic Committee.

The Athletic Committee of the Faculty shall be appointed yearly by the Principal and shall consist of five members, of whom two shall be the two Athletic Directors.

GIRLS' "W" CLUB

"In order to form an organization for the promotion of school spirit, the maintenance of order among the girls and the support of girls' athletics, the "Girls' 'W' Club," the first association of its kind in the history of Western, was formed October 21, 1921, as a result of the unanimous vote of all the girls in the school at an assembly called by Dr. Newton for the purpose of discussing methods of improving conditions in the school. The club was a culmination of the progressive spirit which has been growing among the girls since the establishment of the precedent of awarding letters to girl athletes.

The purposes of the club have in a great measure been effected through the raise in the standard of the "W," which made it necessary for a girl to qualify in scholarship, playing ability and sportsmanship before receiving a letter and becoming a member of the club. However, inasmuch as no organization, with the ideals of the "W" Club, can succeed through the efforts of the members alone it is readily concluded that the club has carried out its aims and become a permanent association because of the splendid spirit of cooperation and interest displayed by all the girls in the school.

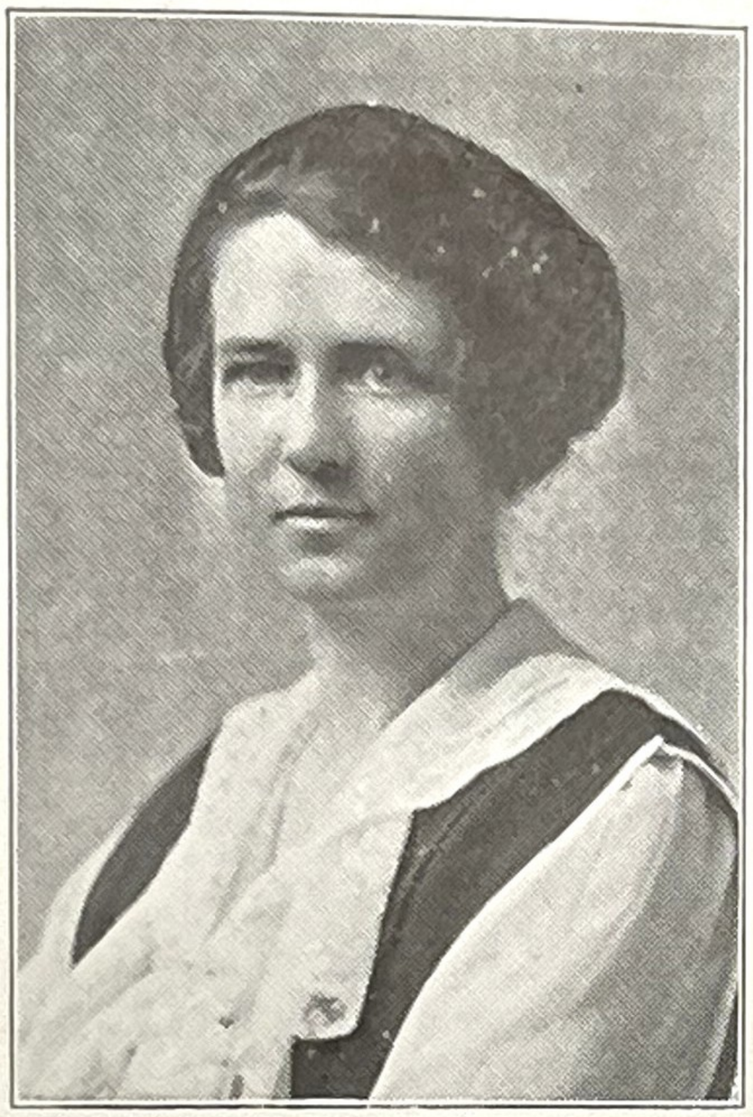

In fulfilling the principles as outlined in the preamble of the constitution the "W" Club has accomplished a number of material results. To the end of "promoting school spirit and the maintenance of order among the girls," the club improved conditions in the locker rooms, rest room and assemblies. As a means of extending the spirit of the club, a party was given to the freshmen girls. The cadets were presented with banners and served refreshment on Cadet Day. The "W" girls have supported girls athletics by their own active participation in sports and by encouraging a larger number of girls to come out for the various teams.

Having established the first Girls' "W" Club in the face of obstacles which inevitably confront a new organization and having accomplished many good results for Western, the members feel pleased with the years' work. However, the girls who are graduating realize that what they have done is only preliminary to the greater things which must be done for the school and they leave with the sincere hope that the work will be carried forward by the "W" Club of 1922-'23.

HELEN NEWMAN
Captain

Miss Meyers was practically unknown to the girls when she first arrived at Western in the fall of 1921, but after a short time they were completely won over by her friendliness, and had an appreciation for her efficient instruction and high ideals.

Our new coach has proved herself a valuable friend not only to the girls, but to the whole school. The first problem that confronted her was the raising of the "W" standard. The value of her suggestion that a girl should not be awarded a "W" merely for being a good player but that consideration should be given to her scholastic record, sportsmanship, general attitude of helpfulness to the school, and conduct as befitting a Western girl, was not immediately realized. But now the girls attribute the unusual success in athletics this year entirely to her vigorous efforts and cheerful aid.

The three qualities which make Miss Meyers so valuable as a coach are her natural ability as an instructor, her wide experience, and her understanding of girls. As for natural ability, she herself is a fine athlete and possesses the rare faculty of inspiring interest for sports in girls not athletic by nature.

Much of Miss Meyers' experience she gained as physical instructor at the John Eaton School and the Columbia Junior High. As assistant director of Camp Farwell she has had the opportunity of studying girls as individuals and bringing out their finest qualities.

The girls of Western thank Miss Meyers for her unselfish efforts in making the 1921-22 season one of extreme interest and unprecedented success.

FRANCES and ELIZABETH BETHEL.

SENIOR HOCKEY TEAM CHAMPIONS, 1921–1922

In hockey the Seniors came out at the top this year, with 14 points to their credit. The whole season was a awhirlwind of close games, 3-0 being the highest score gained.

In the first game of the series, November 3, the Seniors defeated the Juniors, 3-1; in the second, they tied the Sophomores with a 1-1 score, while in the third, they were again the victors over the Juniors, this time 2-0. The Senior-Sophomore game, the last of the series, decided the championship in favor of the Senior team, whose success was largely due to Eleanora Barroll, the star of the season.

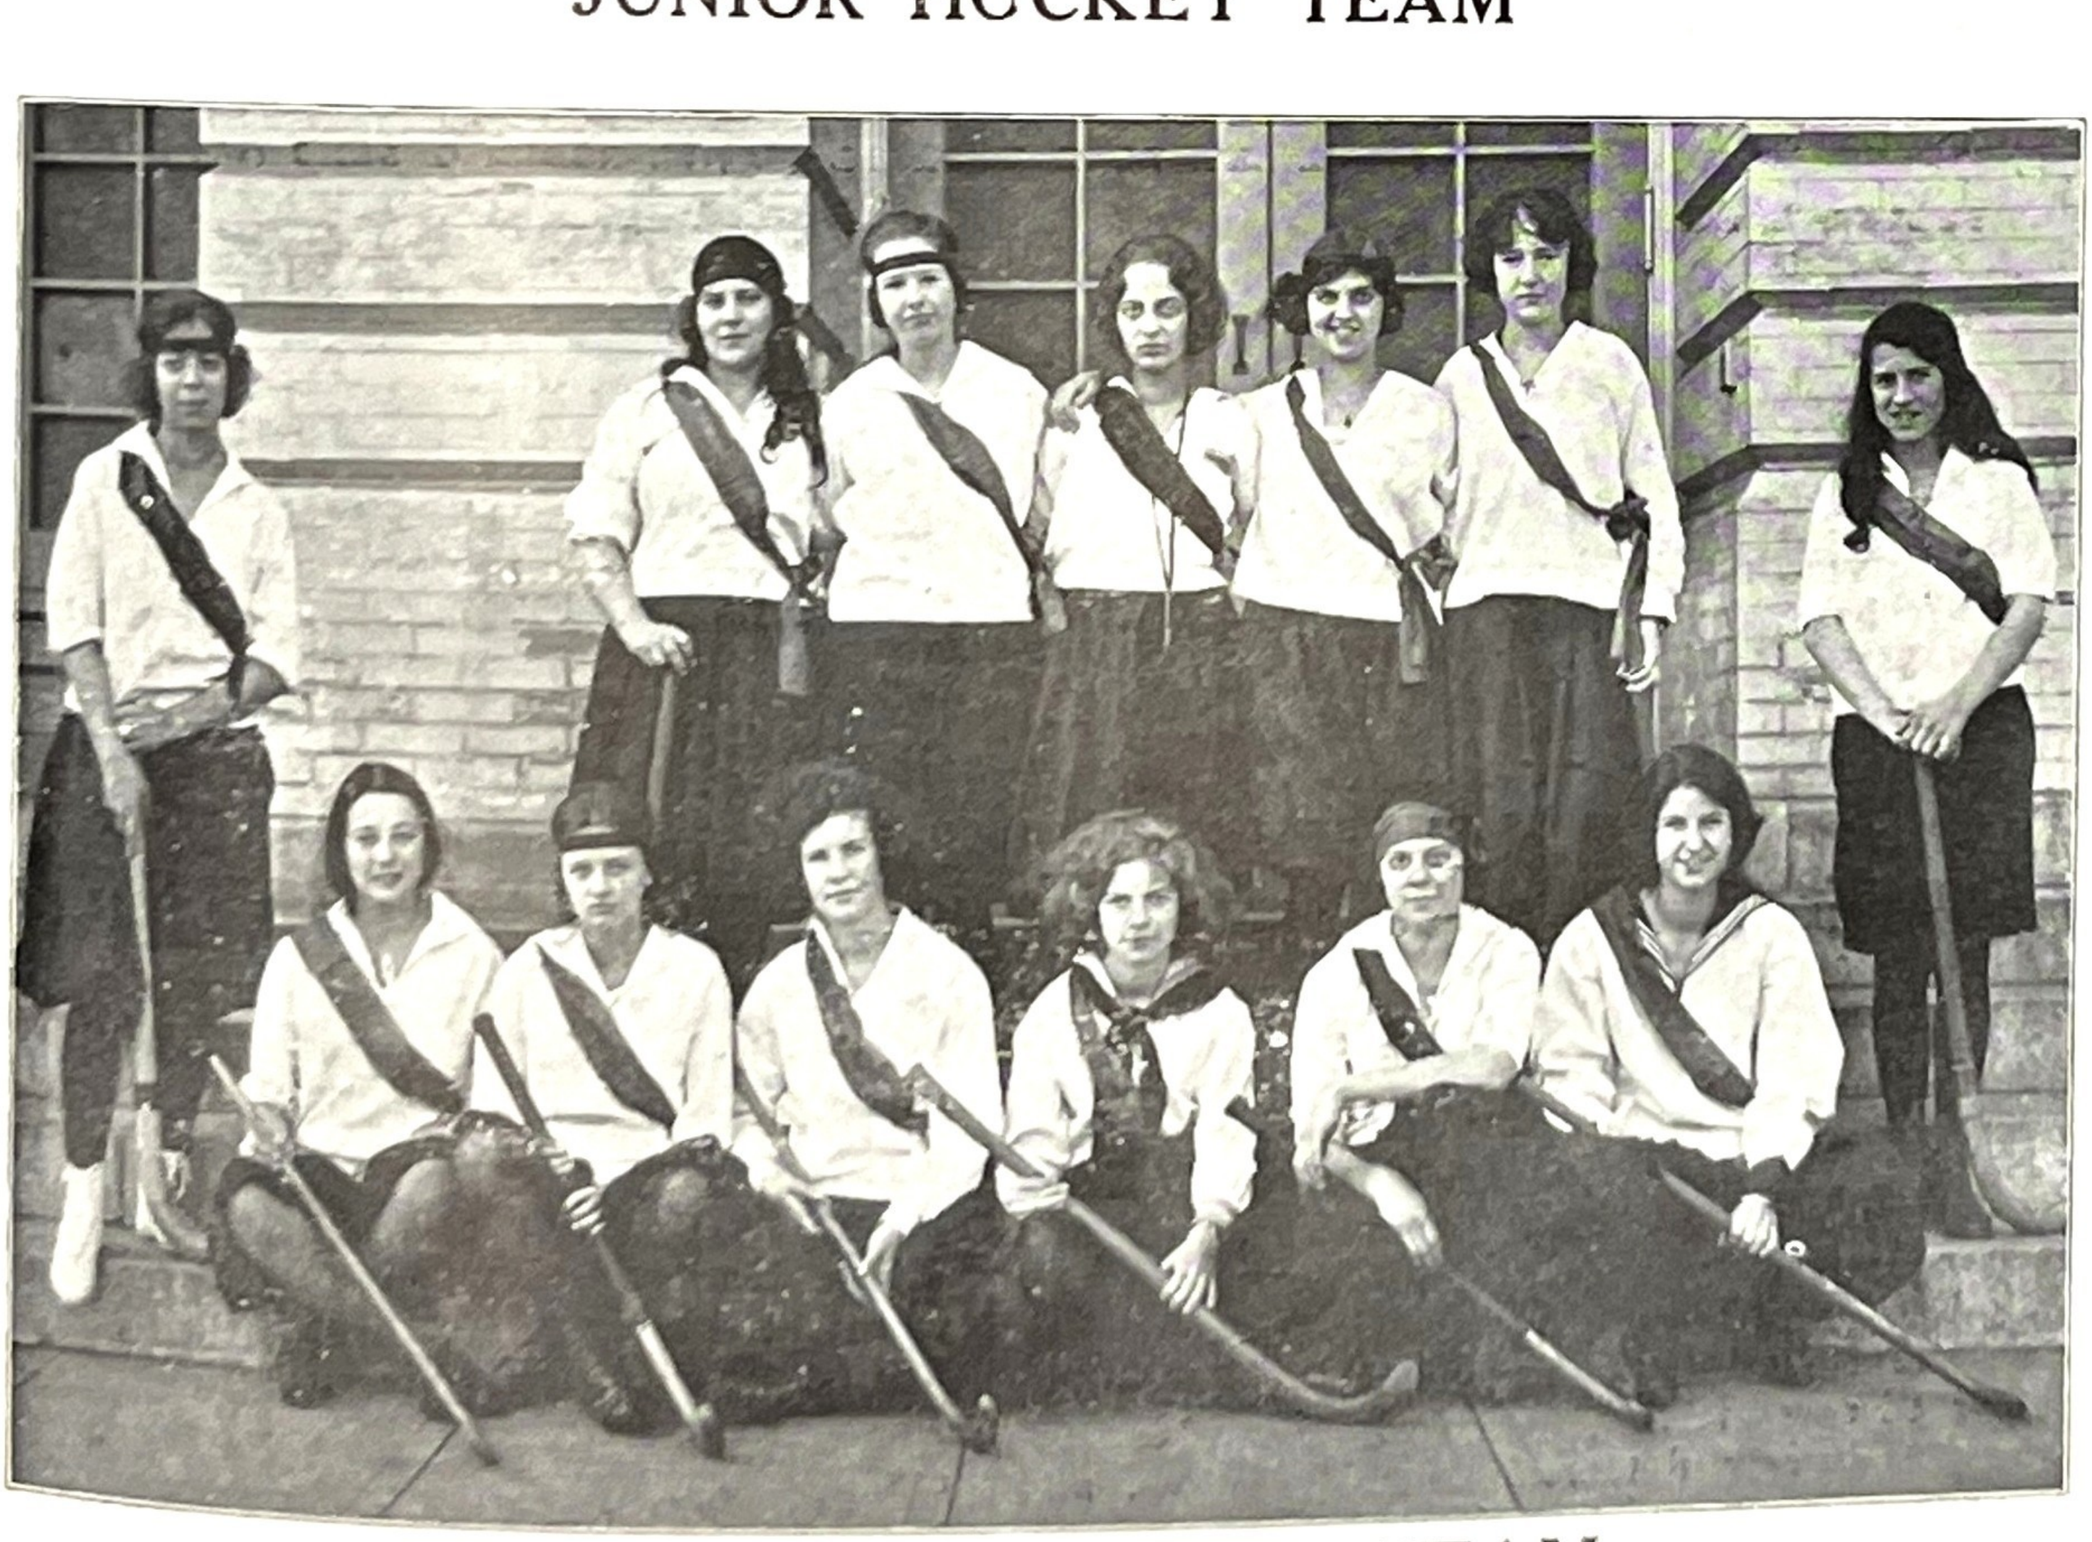

In a general assembly, December 9, after Miss Meyers was formally introduced to the school, she explained her plan for awarding "W's" to the best players on the squad, and numerals to the members of the winning team. Those on the championship hockey team who received "'22's" were Margaret Reese (captain), Eleanora Barroll, Virginia Fuller, Frances and Elizabeth Bethel, Mary Cowman, Helen Rohrer, Nancy Wesson, Frances Pace, Ivy Bruce, Edythe Buckler, Grace Sherman, Dorothy Arnold, and Louise Barnes.

Next year's hockey season may be even more exciting than this, as the game is becoming internationally important. Schools, colleges and clubs in the United States are forming a national organization of hockey players, whose members will receive coaching from professional English women. As this would be advantageous to our teams, Miss Meyers, with Dr. Newton's consent, has accepted an invitation for Western to join the club, providing practices can be held on Western's field. Those who received the special coaching from Miss Gantt last season, know what this practice will mean, and prophesy much interesting work in the future.

SENIORS, BASKET BALL CHAMPIONS

This year marks the termination of a successful basket ball career for the team of '22. With Helen Newman again captain, the Seniors have ended the season as champions for the third time. The remarkable team started its good record by winning as Freshmen, when Helen Newman and Wilmoth Doyle, centers, showed their merit as athletes of unusual ability. Much credit for their Freshmen year's success is due to the skillful instruction of Mrs. Smith. During the Sophomore year the team was defeated with the close scores of 30-28 and 43-35, by the champions of '20. As Juniors, with Helen Newman (captain) and Wilmoth Doyle and Frances Bethel stars, the '22 team literally walked away with every game. The climax was reached this year when, as Seniors, they downed every team in Western offering competition, severely defeated Friends' School, and finally wrested a victory from Miss Eastman's School by 3 points.

The great success of the past season is credited to the change, instigated by Miss Meyers, in the standard of awarding "W's." Judith Barnes, business manager of the four teams, kept a complete record of all plays made by the members of each squad throughout the basket ball season.

Members of the winning team receiving "'22's" were Helen Newman, captain, center; Wilmoth Doyle and Frances Bethel, forwards; Edythe Buckler and Gertrude Bliss, side centers; Eleanora Barroll, Virginia Fuller and Margaret Reese, guards. Nancy Wesson was awarded an honorary "W."

The Seniors voice the sentiment of all the teams in thanking Miss Meyers for her unselfish help and unfailing good-nature, in making this year's basket ball season their most eventful one.

GIRLS' BASEBALL, 1922

According to the following statements, quoted from the captains of the three baseball teams, it is obvious that the season will be one of countless clashes in which the teams clinching first place will have to display unlimited ability, experience, grit and splendid sportsmanship.

"The Seniors' prospects in baseball this year are very bright, with over twenty-five girls responding enthusiastically for practice. There is so much good material from which to pick a team that we should come out victorious, but if not, we will at least make it lively for the others. Wilmoth Doyle and Edythe Buckler are both out for the pitcher's box; rivalry for the mit is between Mary Beck and Frances Bethel; Frances also contends with Abbie Green for first base; Grace Sherman on second and Elizabeth Bethel holding down third, complete the Senior nine."

WILMOTH DOYLE, Captain.

"The Junior squad shows some fine material from which to choose this year's team. Under Miss Meyer's coaching, the batting is progressing rapidly, and the fielding has already improved to a remarkable degree. Margery Shinkle and Elizabeth Hastings are good in the box, while Jane Troxel and Ellen Louise Warfield are sure at the mit. Marie Suter holds down first like a veteran and Selma Erving has shown up well on third. The Junior team should bring its class high honors at the end of the baseball season."

MARY STUART, Captain.

"The Sophomore baseball team is headed for the top honors in the girls' championship series. Under the able direction of Miss Meyers, the Sophs have developed a fast, capable team, composed of girls who play the game squarely, and whose ability and spirit promises, if not championship, a most creditable showing. Those who may become the season's stars are Sylvia Meyers and Karla Heurich, pitchers; Dorothy Smith and Edna Kelly, catchers; Peggy Berry, first base, and Rachel Willson, second base."

THE GIRLS' RIFLE CLUB

Over thirty-five girls signed up when the call was sent out for members by the Girls' Rifle Club this year, and although, according to the roll book, several girls have withdrawn, as many new ones have joined, making a total of nearly forty, which comprises the largest squad in the history of girls' rifle shooting at Western.

Rachel Clarke, Karla Heurich, Eleanora Barroll, Grace Sherman, Gertrude Bliss, Hazel Crist, Evelyn Preble, Henrietta Hall, Helen Wesson and Ruth Cox are among the best shots in the club. The six mentioned first in the list represented the school in the Western-Central indoor match held April 10. Out of the possible 450, prone position, the good total of 435 was made. In spite of the fact that Western was defeated, the managers felt satisfied with the record, as this was the first inter-scholastic match held in a number of years.

The following girls are enrolled in the club in addition to those who appear in the picture above: A. Abadie, L. Fisher, C. Fisher, L. Pace, E. Sturgis, B. Lane, A. Heurich, L. Hickman, L. Omwake, D. Vincel, I. Meade, V. Burbank, D. Tabbetts, E. Warfield, M. Harriman, M. Wright, M. Cowman, K. Ealy and B. Morris.

After the first semester, practice for the Freshman girls was started and about fifty signed up. Great enthusiasm was shown by the number which appeared each day at the beginning of the third period to learn the "gentle art of shooting." Every girl worked hard not only to make the highest score, but to obtain the desired "possible." Christine Larson and Maima Fowle kept up a strong fight for the highest place in the Freshman club while Fern Grengle and Portia Lynam were not far behind.

Lee Hamilton, who has had charge of the Freshman club and has been assistant manager of the older organization this year, will manage both the girls' clubs during 1922-1923.

MARGARET REESE, Manager.

HOP ALONG

Hop along, dear old Western, hop along,
Hop along, dear old Western, hop along;
Give us a show, and we will win,
For we're the team of the Red and White, we fear no harm.

Chorus:

For we're the team of the Red and White, we fear no harm,
For we're the team of the Red and White, we fear no harm;
Give us a show, and we will win,
For we're the team of the Red and White, we fear no harm.

HUMOR

HIS FIRST ORATION

Ladies and Gents, I mean my fellow-classmates,
We are gathered today lest our eagerness
stagnates,
To think on the subject of saving our trees
To give good sweet honey to our honey bees.

Now friends, you must know that our wild flowers start growing
In springtime, or summer, when rain has stopped snowing;
The dogwood or bow-wow as sometimes 'tis called
Bears blossoms, by tourists too soon to be mauled.

Now mauling these blossoms, I'm sorry to say,
Is driving our bow-wow trees quickly away;
And that isn't all, there are several things more
That are making our farmers and other things sore.

Here's one thing: A boob, I mean boy, from the school
Picked a lot of green shoots like some other dern fool,
But a farmer got mad as a lamb newly shorn,
For the pretty green shoots were green shoots of green corn.

And then some poor fish, I mean student,
was sure
That the blossoms of cherries were a hay fever cure;
The owner, however, was surer than he
That cherries, for eating, were good as can be.

Now remember, my friends, my companions in prison,
That the farmers around here have up and arisen.
So we must save flowers and green corn shoots,
too;
That is all I ned say. Fellow students, thank you.

WHEN THE CIRCUS WAS IN TOWN

Circus has come and went. Deflation in presence of senior and freshman classes. Teacher called roll and all answered "Absent."

Classes in Math formed at middle ring of Barnums Collosal Aggregation of Extraordinary Phenomina In the Greatest Show on Earth. A equals first clown. B equals Rothwell Brown and other dignified seniors among those present. Sum of A plus B equals a run on permits to re-enter class.

Unreserved section looked like general assembly. Acrobat read roll of honor amid barrage of tomatoes grown when Bryan first ran for President. Elephants and juniors enjoyed peanuts. Birds of a feather flock together. Also eat same chicken feed.

Swimming team took submarine lessons from untrained seals. Seals got herring at end of act. Team doesn't. Team cries all the way home cause these trained seals got fresh herring and this swimming team got none.

Bull fight broken by entrance of "Hots" Woerner. Brave toreador. Bulls do not like red. Q. E. D.

Graduates-to-be watch monkey try to look wise. Then imitate him. Lions jump thru fiery hoop. So do firemen and rookies. Elephants get pat on back for good work. Deputies give smokers pat on back for bad work. Poor rule that won't work both ways.

Juniors intoxicated by pink lemonade. And flappers. Disintoxiated by ice cream. And proximity of lions.

Al May decides on circus career. (New York papers please copy). Future clown of first water. But second hand circus.

Bob Lamb to become circus trainer of lions. Easier than training rookies, rookies too noisy. Lion's roar is to rookies' shout as harmonica is to steam whistle. Quadratic equation. Or something like that.

Barnum was correct in statement concerning birth rate of marine animals. Only he wasn't strong enough. One born every second, not minute.

BREEZY BITS

Remember last year when Robert Armstrong started the overall fad? Maybe that was the beginning of the knickerbocker craze.

Now that Helen Newman, Bill Doyle and Frances Bethel and the rest of the famous Senior Girl athletes graduate, perhaps there will be a little competition for the championships.

Hey, Napolcan!——(see Bo Lamar).

The mystery is:—How'd Dot Barron get those black eyes?????

There was an old duffer called Baird,
Who for lessons a rap never cared.
But in basket ball lines
Believe me, he shines!
And shows 'em his pains are not spared.

There was a young flapper called Jessie,
Who was ever considered quite dressy.
The smile she employs
Attracts all the boys.
That popular flapper called Jessie!

Bobbed hair's getting so common these days, that even if Bill Doyle "took the fatal step" no one would be surprised.

With the best wishes of

'93
